Pattullo Warns Against Tax Increases In B.C.

Liberal Leader Says B.C. Ministry Heads For Deficit

T. D. Pattullo, Addressing Big Audience at Annual Meeting of Vancouver Liberal Association, Says Tolmie Government Increasing Levies for Present Commitments and at Same Time Talking of Great Outlay on Alaska-Yukon Road.

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—"The building of the Alaska-Yukon Road is a heavy undertaking and I think the Government will find it desirable to forget anything of the kind until the requirements of the settled portions of the Province are adequately met," said T. D. Pattullo, M.P., Provincial Liberal leader, addressing a large audience at the annual meeting of the Vancouver City Liberal Association in Moose Hall last night.

Mr. Pattullo, who dealt with a number of public questions affecting the welfare of British Columbia, was listened to with the closest attention throughout, frequently being forced to wait for applause to die down, and at the conclusion was given a prolonged ovation which left no doubt of the strength of the support he finds in Vancouver.

The Liberal leader, sounding a warning on taxation increases in British Columbia, said: "As a matter of fact the Government finds it necessary, with the squandering which is going on, to increase taxes to take care of present commitments, not to speak of additional road programmes. I predict the Government will show a deficit during the coming session running into millions."

Mr. Pattullo questioned whether Premier Tolmie would be able to secure the support of the Legislature for a programme of road building to Alaska at the present juncture. "Everybody is, I think, in favor of a road leading to everywhere, but first things must come first," said Mr. Pattullo.

South African Natives Now Deny Moscow Influence

Johannesburg, S.A., Nov. 22 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Native leaders, meeting here, issued a statement emphatically denying the Communist Internationale was responsible for the present unrest among natives in the Union of South Africa. The Third Internationale had never been in communication or in close touch with the native organization, the statement declared.

BRITISH BILL IS TEST VOTE

Maxton's Unemployment Insurance Amendment Will Divide House

London, Nov. 22.—Indications the rebellion in the Labor Party over the Government's unemployment insurance bill may reach serious proportions have come. The bill went to second reading in the House of Commons last night and after a somewhat acrid debate, the House adjourned with the prospect of a vote on Monday.

James Maxton, leader of the left wing of the Government party, insisted on pressing forward his amendment to the measure. "This change would provide a pound a week for each adult unemployed man, ten shillings for his wife and five shillings for each dependent child."

COMBINATION POSSIBLE
It is said thirty-two members of the Labor Party have agreed to support the Maxton amendment. Parliamentary observers agree that if this is added to the bill, the Government is sure to be defeated by a combination of Conservative and Liberal votes. It might even mean an appeal to the country and another general election.

The bill is the first major measure ever presented to Parliament by a woman. It was introduced by Miss Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor.

CLEMENCEAU FIGHTS FOR LIFE TO-DAY

Aged Statesman of France Is at Crisis; Suffers Great Pain

Paris, Nov. 22.—Dr. Degennes, member of the medical staff attending former Premier Georges Clemenceau, late to-day said the death of "The Tiger" appeared only a question of hours.

The physician said the former Premier was suffering from a crisis of uremia, which already had lasted eighteen hours, and could not possibly last another twenty-four.

Unless an unexpected improvement should be shown within a few hours, Dr. Degennes concluded, the former Premier could not hope to survive the present crisis.

Suffering intense agony, the eighty-year-old statesman was being watched constantly by his physicians and members of his family. Even injection of morphine gave him no relief from the pain caused by digestional disturbance, and only injections of camphorated oil kept his heart going.

Brave Fight
The physicians said M. Clemenceau was in the greatest pain, and had vainly tried to restrain himself from crying out.

One of M. Clemenceau's closest friends told the correspondent: "M. Clemenceau's extraordinary physical resistance is used up."

George Mandel, former Cabinet chief for "The Tiger," visited the bedside this afternoon.

Reorganization of Agricultural Group Results in Election of P. L. Naismith as Chairman; Heads of Various Fruit Growers' Associations Address Well-attended Gathering, Telling of Progress and Troubles in Rural Areas.

Revival of the agricultural group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce into an active hard-working body was commenced at a well-attended luncheon meeting in the chamber dining-room to-day.

Election of a new chairman and executive and addresses from heads of various fruit-growing organizations of Saanich formed the main business of the gathering over which J. A. Griffiths presided.

P. L. Naismith was unanimously elected chairman while the four executive members are as follows: J. A. Griffiths, D. W. Hanbury, Duncan McTavish and Thomas Walker.

Problems facing the farmers and fruit growers of the Saanich area were presented to the meeting by the following speakers: W. F. Somers, president of the Gordon Head Fruit Growers' Association; H. C. Oldfield, president of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association; and H. E. Tanner, manager of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—General upward movements of prairie thermometers to-day eased the intense cold which suddenly descended on the region Wednesday, but it was still winter as strong northwest gales blew a heavy covering of snow over the wide expanse of the frozen wheat belt. Alberta experienced a great weather change, temperature jumping from their sub-zero levels of yesterday almost to the bare freezing point mark. Manitoba and Saskatchewan were enjoying milder weather, but there was snow and a bleak wind.

Forecasts pointed to and extremely frigid week-end all through the prairie region, with a further drop in temperatures to-morrow.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—An alleged gigantic swindle, already involving nearly a quarter of a million dollars and which may affect bond companies, banks and restaurant chains, has been revealed by investigations made by the Ontario Attorney-General's Department.

Following an investigation, George A. Stephenson, trustee in bankruptcy of the Sterling Refrigerator Company of Bronte, and L. A. Sterling, member of the defunct company, were arrested yesterday. The two men were held on information charging them with conspiracy to defraud. The case is one of the strangest and most entangled in the history of Ontario civil and criminal courts.

SILVER FOXES ON RANCH ARE STOLEN

Merritt, B.C., Nov. 22.—Provincial police are investigating the disappearance of five silver foxes from the ranch of William Corkle, Lower Nicola.

The foxes were taken from separate pens, the locks of which had been forced.

The animals were valued at $5,000, their fur being in prime condition.

Russians Kill 1,000 Chinese

Tokio, Nov. 22.—Refugees arriving at Kharlar from eastern Manchuria to-day said 1,000 Chinese troops and civilians seeking protection from air raids in a coal mine at Delainor had perished in a Soviet bombing attack.

The report was contained in a telegram from The Asahi's Harbin correspondent, who said the bombs dropped by the Soviet aeroplanes had caused part of the mine to cave in.

The same authority said the Chinese troops had evacuated Manchuria and had retreated in the direction of Delainor.

LIGHT RATE CUT MADE FOR MANY

Areas Which Joined Vancouver to Be Given Equalization By March 1

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—Light and power rates in the old districts of South Vancouver and Point Grey will be reduced to the former city's level on March 1, 1930, it was announced by W. G. Murray, president of the B.C. Electric Railway Company, at a conference with the city council this morning.

The announcement came as a distinct surprise to most of the council members. On July 16 the company declined to cut the South Vancouver and Point Grey charges to the city rate level and a few days ago Mayor W. H. Malkin asked the council to invite a conference with B.C.E.R. officials to discuss unification of rates throughout the greater city.

WATER SHORTAGE
This morning, after a few introductory remarks by the mayor, Mr. Murray stated his company's position, particularly in view of the present water shortage and concluded a few minutes' remarks by promising light and power rates would be standardized throughout the amalgamated city by March 1, next year.

B.C. SECOND IN CADET CONTEST

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Quebec is far in the lead of other provinces in the proportion of its school pupils enrolled in the cadet movement, and accordingly, wins the Earl Grey trophy, donated by the former Governor-General of Canada, it was announced at the Department of National Defence to-day. Quebec's cadets number 64,608, against 5,285 in British Columbia, which finished second in the trophy competition, and 37,095 in Ontario, which was third.

The trophy is presented annually to the province, having the largest number of cadets in proportion to boys attending school.

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—The general contract, amounting to $2,000,000, for the construction of a dam, pipelines, tunnel and powerhouse at Lois River for the Powell River Company, was awarded to-day to Stuart Cameron and Company.

In addition to constructing the various structures which will comprise the Lois River power plant, the Cameron Company will build four extensive mill buildings at the Powell River site. These will make use of the 10,000 horsepower which will be generated by the new power plant.

B. C. Electric Will Run Motor Fleet In Victoria Services

Eight Coaches, Each Carrying Forty-two Passengers, to Arrive This Week-end; A. T. Goward, Vice-president, Forecasts Early Announcement of New Services; Street Car System Loses Money Daily; Replacement by Automotive Vehicles Has Been Long Studied.

Eighty-four two passenger buses, the first squadron of a fleet to be operated in Greater Victoria services of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, are now being shipped from Vancouver to Nanaimo and will arrive here at the end of this week. A. T. Goward, vice-president of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Limited, said this morning that details of the service would be announced in the course of the next three or four days.

DAILY LOSSES BY STREET CARS

Compliments of the revenue and expenses incident to operation of each of the street car routes show that several lines, notably the service to the Uplands, do not earn the wages paid even at the rush hours. Taken as a whole, the company has had a heavy daily deficit between the cash taken and the wages involved in operation and maintenance, and this has been mounting steadily for the last three years.

THREE YEARS OF STUDY

More than three years ago the officials commenced a serious study of the feasibility of replacing the street cars with large buses. Recent mechanical improvements in automotive vehicles, with general adoption of buses of dual balloon tires and four-wheel brakes, have conferred safety factors on a par with those previously considered exclusive to street cars.

Increased mobility in traffic has also been of sufficient importance to attract strong support, and it is understood that, in addition to new services within the closely settled portions of Victoria and Oak Bay, experimental replacement of electric cars by the new vehicles will be carried out with the new fleet.

PREPARING QUARTERS

Preparations for the housing of the buses are being made at the Cloverdale car barn, which will be used as the general repair and maintenance depot.

The franchise of the company in Victoria will continue in effect until December 5, 1930. The first franchise was granted in 1894 and was supplemented in 1909 by additional privileges. The rights of the Company were further recognized some years ago, when the City Council enacted a by-law (Continued on Page 21)

Premier Finds West Supporting Federal Ministry's Policies

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—"I feel satisfied," says a statement issued by Premier King, "that Western Canada—and in Western Canada I include the three prairie provinces and British Columbia—is well pleased with the policies of the present administration and believe these policies have contributed in no small measure to the prosperity so greatly in evidence on every side."

There has been general approval of the views expressed and in no particular case have we in Canada at the present time any issue of real concern to the country," said the Premier as he turned east from Winnipeg, returning to Ottawa after the tour which carried him to Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

Three Die In Winnipeg Fire

Mother, Son and Daughter Trapped By Flames in Burning Home

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—Fire that raged the home of John Johnson on Atlantic Avenue here early to-day took the lives of three members of his family. Five other persons were saved.

Mrs. Florence Johnson, sixty; Winifred Johnson, twenty-four, her daughter, and Roy Johnson, sixteen, a son, were burned to death.

Efforts to reach the three victims proved fruitless. The bodies were found on the ground floor of the house, having fallen from bedrooms on the second story when the floor fell through. FIREMEN TOO LATE

The house was a mass of flames when firemen arrived. Sidney Johnson, another member of the family, was responsible for saving the lives of four persons. Almost overcome by smoke as he lay in bed, he succeeded in getting out of his room, raising the alarm. He first awoke Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, sleeping in an adjoining bedroom, and assisted Mrs. Thompson from the house. His father, John Johnson, and brother, Victor, were then awakened and rushed to safety.

Huge Oil Production In Canada Available Now Through Research

Bituminous Sands of Northern Alberta Will Be Turned Into Vast Oil Gasoline Producing Areas as Result of Tests Just Completed; Canadians Win Frantic Scientific Race in Competition With Europeans to Gain Control of Vast Deposits.

Without the drilling of one solitary new well, Canada can henceforth be entirely independent as far as oil is concerned, at least for some hundreds of years, says a copyrighted dispatch to The Vancouver Daily Province, by Samuel A. Cawan.

Not only that, but she can proceed immediately with the commercial development of what is recognized by petroleum engineers in every part of the world as the largest reservoir of this vital fuel known to exist. She can produce purer crude oil than now can be secured from almost any well, and as cheaply, if not more economically, than it can be secured by present-day methods. Moreover, she can produce it in staggering quantities.

It is sufficient for the moment to say that experts state that there is available hundreds of times the world's present annual consumption of oil. Figures, even from experts, vary enormously. Another one gives the known supply of gasoline alone from this new source as 35,000,000,000 barrels. In any case, the total is so colossal as to be almost beyond imagination.

1,000 SQUARE MILES

This oil reserve is contained in the vast stretches of bituminous sands covering roughly 1,000 square miles, which lie along the Athabasca and its tributaries in Northern Alberta. Its existence has been known for decades, also the fact that there was no other potential oil field like it on the globe. It is reputed to be probably the oldest oil field known and therefore likely to produce the finest oil. For years it has been said that if some way of getting the oil out of those sands could be discovered it could supply the entire world for an enormous length of time.

But, until a few weeks ago, those vast potential riches were, in actual fact, not at the moment, worth anything. The oil was there, but science had no way of securing it economically. For twenty years chemists and engineers have worked ceaselessly testing and discarding hundreds of methods.

Millions have been spent in experimental work. It was a frantic scientific race for a colossal prize. The Germans, in particular, have been especially anxious to find a solution to the problem, and thus be in position to tap these enormous Canadian resources. They went at it with typical Teutonic thoroughness and stuck to it with Teutonic persistence.

FOUND BY CANADIANS

But the key has now been found and the solution of the problem is controlled by Canadians. The European contestants, apparently, have lost the race, for what has happened, during the last few days is the final completion of a purely mechanical method, very cheap and very simple, almost automatic and requiring no chemical by which practically pure crude oil can be taken from these sands in forty-five seconds. By which, in other words, oil can be manufactured commercially in Alberta in immense quantities.

The methods were checked and re-checked, tested and retested for four continuous days. Hon. Charles Stewart, federal Minister of the Interior, went to Edmonton and studied the tests as they were being quietly carried on. His deputy, Charles Campbell, investigated them. Experts representing the Canadian National Railways and the Alberta Government, as well as large commercial interests whose identity is not divulged, watched the whole process. Finally, independent engineers were called in to prepare independent reports.

As a result of all this painstaking effort, those who developed the method now feel that they are in a position to make a public announcement and have just revealed the complete story for the first time.

CREDIT TO HINTON

The two central figures linked with the new method are both men of high standing, and with international reputations. One is William F. Hinton. He was vice-president in charge of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and the completion of this oil process marks, for him, the end of twelve years of steady research and study.

The other is W. C. Laughlin, an American mining engineer whose technical achievements have been related in engineering journals in all parts of the world. He was recently chief engineer for the John Hays Hammond interests in Mexico, where he developed a now-famous mineral separation system which made practicable the utilization of low-grade ores, principally silver-lead, previously considered unprofitable.

A Toronto engineer who heard the details, yesterday for the first time declared it was the most important economic announcement ever made in the Dominion.

That it is fraught with enormous commercial possibilities; that it will conceivably affect scores of industries; that it will influence oil production in every sector of the globe; that it may mark a new era in Canadian development, are all aspects of the matter which time will reveal.

Mr. Hinton himself is enthusiastic, as it is to be expected. But he wishes to confine himself in this first announcement to a plain statement of what has been done, what the results have been, and what he proposes to do now.

FOR TWELVE YEARS

For twelve years Mr. Hinton, like three of others has been studying the bituminous sands. He has been watching the results of every other series of experiments he knew. He has been keeping tab on mineral and engineering developments of all sorts. He is in the hope of finding something which might be applicable here.

Scores of times the oil has been separated from the tar sands. All that was learned was that it was very good oil. Without exception, the methods were not practical. They required costly chemicals or an involved process, or great heat. It looked as if it might be a lifetime before the vast area was for commercial purposes, much to be made.

Four years ago, Mr. Hinton, in association with German scientists, carried on researches near Newark, which at first seemed to promise success, but eventually the heavily acknowledged that they like every one else, were beaten. The test plant was closed and the Canadian engineer decided that if the problem was ever to be solved, it would have to be by some simple, cheap mechanical method. He decided to abandon all the more complicated means and concentrate on that.

LAUGHLIN INVENTS MACHINE

Two years ago last April, he heard that a friend of his, W. C. Laughlin, was building in a test laboratory in Newark, a three-way centrifugal separating machine.

A preliminary survey of Laughlin's blueprints convinced him that the basic idea was sound. He decided to try it. He had a Canadian bituminous sand, Laughlin agreed to tackle the problem. He knew nothing of the deposits Hinton referred to except their extraordinary richness. Hinton put all the results of his years of work at the American engineer's disposal.

After two months in his laboratory, Laughlin wired that he had a machine which he thought would do the job. It is described as a three-way centrifugal separator, the first that has ever been built. To describe it as simply a separator, the underlying idea is something like the cream separator, though naturally many times more complicated.

TESTS PRODUCED OIL

Over at Newark, Hinton still had 1,500 pounds of the sands. They had been lying in the open; were thoroughly oxidized and practically rock. But he shipped them over, and they were put in the test machine. Pure crude oil was the result.

The federal department of mines in Ottawa was quickly notified. In February, 1928, three government officials slipped down to Hinton, and there with Hinton and Laughlin, another test was made. It was as successful as the first.

No hint of what was going on was revealed. Scores of other times engineers, chemists and all varieties of experimenters have believed themselves to have achieved the desired results and have even tentatively announced that they had found a way to undertake the commercial production of oil. The process was too high, or the method not sufficiently efficient. Hinton and Laughlin said nothing. No news leaked from the Federal Department of Mines.

TAKES 45 SECONDS

Laughlin commenced at once to build a commercial machine to continue the tests before any statement would be made. It was completed this summer, and shipped to Edmonton, Alta. Five miles north of that city, through the courtesy of the National Research Council, they were given the use of a research plant. It was really only a shed, but it served the purpose. They proceeded to get supplies of fresh bituminous sands from the mighty deposits 300 miles to the north. They assembled the machine, which had a capacity of 70 tons a day; they built a temporary conveyor system and a 12-foot pug mill. The pug mill is a simple washer. It washes the sands, freeing them of the coarser quartz-like grains of dirt.

On October 21 they were ready to make what was approximately a commercial test of the method.

The only product which it is necessary to mix with the sands is warm water, approximately heated to 90 degrees. They fed sand continuously into the machine. Forty-five seconds after the completion of the operation, they got a residue of the water, and an extremely fine oil. They got what appeared to be crude oil of the best quality. As far as they could judge, it could be run into barrels direct from the machine and shipped to the refinery.

FREE FROM IMPURITIES

The inventors of this new process sent samples of their crude to the laboratories of the University of Alberta for examination. They were told that the oil was practically free of impurities (and it was) and that there was possibly a mere trace of mineral solids. This was so small that

The western scientists were unable to measure it with the equipment at their disposal.

Successive examinations continued to give the same results. The manufactured oil, by this new process, was cleaner than that which the refinery receives from the average well.

The two engineers then felt that one possible difficulty was cleared away. The oil was clean. It was a comparatively pure and marketable product. They, therefore, turned their attention to further tests of the accuracy of their machine, and to a study of the exact costs of manufacturing the crude oil, the handicaps which had hitherto baffled all searchers for the clue to this scientific puzzle.

FOR TWO WEEKS

For two solid weeks, that is, until a few days ago, they operated their test machine steadily each day. Any hitch which occurred were caused by the difficulty of securing a proper water supply. The results from the machine were practically unvarying. Internationally-known petroleum engineers began to slip unobtrusively into Edmonton. Every morning at dawn, noted scientists could be seen driving hurriedly north. Celebrated individuals of industrial and business circles were to be observed toiling in overall, like day laborers, until it was too dark to do more.

For fourteen full days the continuous centrifugal machine continued to run. Every test showed clear crude. Hinton and Laughlin went over and over the question of costs. Both as practical engineers of long experience were dealing with a matter with which they were thoroughly familiar.

"Our calculations," Mr. Hinton said, "convince us that we could turn out practically pure crude oil as cheaply as can be produced in any present-day day of field, and that manufacture on an enormous scale, if desired, is completely practical."

COMPLETE WITH OIL WELLS

There have been continuous rumors in oil circles that production by this new Hinton-Laughlin method is more economical than the present-day procedure of drilling wells, and pumping the crude from the lower regions, or letting it flow up by virtue of the underground gas pressure. This, after a long questioning, Mr. Hinton will not admit.

He confines himself strictly to the statements that immediate manufacture of crude oil is possible, but desirable, and that the oil, extracted from the sands, can compete in the present market with the crude from existing wells.

The question of getting the sands from the existing huge deposits, and bringing them to a manufacturing plant, Mr. Hinton had already studied from the beginning. It is a question of getting a road, or a pipeline, or a water route to the Arctic sea.

He is not at all deterred by the fact that the sands are located on the great Arctic waterways system, along which large stern wheelers, both freight and passenger, can presently already run. There is, therefore, a water route to the Arctic sea.

WILL AID DEVELOPMENT

Just as an interesting sidelight on the multitude of economic changes which this one simple mechanical process may conceivably bring about, it is only necessary to hope that the sands will be developed. If it replaces wood as fuel, vessels of the size now plying to the edge of the Arctic will have available space for fifty tons of additional cargo. The sands can be speeded up, for constant stops to load wood will be unnecessary, and each steamer may reasonably make one additional trip each season.

Commercial exploitation of northern Alberta's bituminous sands, therefore, by cutting time required for transport and the cost of carrying cargo, can easily be a factor in the ultimate development of the great untapped empire of the northwest.

Engineering estimates of the quantity of oil which the sands contain, however, would require a stupendous expenditure and an enormous length of time to discover this with anything approaching accuracy.

LARGEST EXPOSURE

Dr. T. O. Rosworth, then geologist of the Imperial Oil Company, and an internationally-recognized authority on petroleum, said to an industrial congress in 1919: "In the district of McMurray, on the Athabasca River, we have the largest natural exposure of oil in the world. A simple calculation gives the result as 30,000 million barrels. This is an immense quantity. It is a hundred times the world's annual production."

But that was ten years ago. Since then, both production and consumption have jumped at a staggering rate. One recent set of statistics set the world's consumption for 1928 at 1,012,000,000 barrels, and the production at 1,322,896,000 barrels. Another estimate

SAVES THE WORLD'S DEMANDS AS 3,500,000 BARRELS

But if world consumption has increased so spectacularly since the statement was made, so, with more complete exploration of the country, have the potentialities of this enormous Canadian field increased.

In a paper delivered before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, somewhat over a year ago by Gustav Eglolf and Jacques C. Morrell, two chemists, whose standing is beyond question, it is reported:

"The known bituminous sand deposits are estimated to contain over 100,000,000,000 barrels of bitumen. When the economic demand is high enough for gasoline, the Alberta bitumen can be converted into over 35 per cent of high anti-knock motor fuel, by the cracking process. The quantity of gasoline obtainable from the known deposits of Alberta bitumen would be more than 35,000,000,000 barrels, or enough gasoline to supply the present world demand for over 100 years."

It is necessary to distinguish between statistics giving the world demand for oil, and estimates of the Alberta resources in gasoline. It should also be noted that the figures just quoted refer only to known deposits. There is no allowance made for future resources which commercial development may reveal.

DEPTH OF SANDS SHOWN

So far the survey of the field has necessarily been made largely from surface indications, supplemented by examination of cores taken from outcroppings, and whatever dependable information the logs of wells drilled into the sands years ago contain. When the filling of claims was allowed, many individuals and firms hurried in to drill these deposits in hope that the method would produce oil. The hope as it turned out, was vain, but the attempts did result in the collection of a certain amount of information which has since been of value.

The leading Canadian authority, Mr. S. G. Ellis, is never inclined to overestimate in a statement. In a 240-page report on the occurrence and economic possibilities of these bituminous sands he states: "It is this difficult, from information at present available, to indicate the probable source of petroleum which has saturated sands of the McMurray formation, having an estimated aggregate volume of more than 500,000,000,000 cubic yards. To saturate this sand

WOULD REQUIRE CRUDE PETROLEUM HAVING A VOLUME EQUIVALENT TO AT LEAST 50,000,000,000 CUBIC YARDS.

"The writer has measured and examined more than 300 individual outcrops," he says at another point, "telling of the general extent of the bituminous sands, all of which represent portions of an apparently continuous deposit. These outcrops extend along the Athabasca River and its tributaries through a total distance of more than 200 miles. The direct distance in a north and south direction through which outcrops have been noted, is approximately 115 miles and that from east to west, approximately 55 miles."

Some idea of the ease with which the sands can be mined, if that can be considered the proper term, and the vast amounts immediately available, can be gathered from the results of Mr. Hinton's personal investigations. He states that the big problem of over-burden or top soil, which must be removed to get at the deposits, will not interfere with commercial development for at least 100, and probably 250 years.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, and artificial digestants, and instead take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bismarck Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomachs no longer trouble them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bismarck Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself; but be certain to get Bismarck Magnesia, especially prepared for stomach use. (Adv.)

PROBLEMS OF FRUIT GROWERS IN SAANICH LAID BEFORE CHAMBER

Some length on the strawberry and bulb industries. Regarding irrigation he mentioned there had been an extension of the Saanich water system of which some growers had taken advantage and found a good investment. The idea has come to me, however, he said, "that the Provincial Government, some time in the future, will have to provide a modern water system for Sidney and the surrounding district. The main for this system must pass through Saanich and I am sure the farmers who wish water for irrigation purposes would be only too glad to pay for it."

In connection with the strawberry industry, one of the chief difficulties was that of transportation to export markets. The bulb industry undoubtedly had a good future. The men connected with it were new to the game and needed experience, but they were progressing well. Mr. Oldfield quoted figures to show the steady growth of the fruit industry in Saanich. In 1928 there were 1,400 acres of small fruits on the island and of this amount 600 acres were strawberries and 350 loganberries. The loganberry areas had grown considerably this year while the strawberries had increased slightly.

QUESTION OF EMPLOYMENT
Strawberry growing was faced with the biggest problem, Mr. Oldfield said, pointing out that there were 250 members of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association, most of whom had what he called "holding" jobs. When the season was over they were obliged to seek other employment during the off season to tide them over. The bulb industry would deteriorate and the industry suffer. While this had not occurred to any great extent, the situation was approaching in the strawberry industry. With respect to the marketing of the fruit, Mr. Oldfield referred to the growing system instituted by the growers to the success which it had secured. Competition from United States fruits on the prairie market was also discussed by the speaker, who pointed out that owing to the labor shortage on this island the market there was glutted with Missouri berries before the island produce arrived. Last year 114 cars of U.S. berries and eight-seven cars of Missouri berries were taken by the prairie market.

SEASONAL TARIFF
"The only solution we can see for this problem is the advocacy of a seasonal tariff, applying a few weeks before our berries are ready for market. It is not a political question, but an economic one for the growers," he said.

Mr. Twining gave a very interesting account of the loganberry industry, telling how experience had led to the making of wine and of the gradual development in manufacturing this product. Climatic conditions on the south end of the island were very favorable for loganberry growing as soil damaged only a small portion of the canes, he added. The Growers' Wine Company plant, costing $25,000, had been built, and had a capacity of several hundred thousand gallons.

FAVORABLE PROSPECTS
At present the market for this wine was limited to the liquor houses of the four western provinces, Mr. Twining said. Samples had, however, been sent to England and other parts of the empire where they had been received favorably and owing to growing Canadian market, any demand for this wine could be met.

Growth of the bulb industry was discussed by Mr. Twining, who mentioned that over 200,000 dozen blooms were shipped out this year. This meant the circulation of something like $50,000 or $75,000 by the bulb industry in the neighborhood of Victoria.

"The growers are now trying to supply the 'Dutch' market," he mentioned. "That is where the Chamber of Commerce can help. The Chamber grows and sends out salmon every year to all parts of the world and there is a strong temptation to meet. The time will come when we export salmon to Ottawa for an embargo on certain varieties of bulbs with which we are British Columbia can supply the whole Canadian market." Mr. Tanner outlined the value of the greenhouse industry in Victoria. "The greenhouse, made in this district, was used annually by the growers, he said. Thirty to forty bales of straw per acre were used by the growers as well as fertilizers and labels of local make."

NEW LOWEST PRICES
"And yet," he said, "our fruits secure only the lowest prices and we are not able to gain a satisfactory return." He discussed at some length the problem of marketing, pointing out that a seasonal tariff which would enable the Saanich berries to compete with those of the United States. "Having an industry which is trying to build up a portion of Canada is entitled to some protection," he said.

With regard to the loganberry production, he pointed out that in 1928, thirty bales were produced while last year the amount was 400 bales. This was a record, he said. In conclusion, he spoke of the progress of the industry, which was served at the luncheon. This would enable the growers to reach eastern and foreign markets when no fresh berries were available.

PECK FARMING
A comprehensive survey of the food industry which is making rapid strides at the present time, was given by D. W. Hanbury, who spoke of the great value of this work. J. C. Peck, farming expert, regretted that the Home Products Fair had not been held this year, owing to the fact that it was of great help in promoting the sale of local products. He hoped the Chamber would support the fair next year.

PREMIER FINDS WEST SUPPORTING FEDERAL MINISTRY'S POLICIES

"The solution of the problems of finance, transportation, immigration, labor and the like, which confronted the Government, is making rapid strides at the present time, was given by D. W. Hanbury, who spoke of the great value of this work. J. C. Peck, farming expert, regretted that the Home Products Fair had not been held this year, owing to the fact that it was of great help in promoting the sale of local products. He hoped the Chamber would support the fair next year."

It ever a government or a party had been vindicated in its attitude on any question, it was the present government in its attitude toward the tariff question in the early part of the year, said Mr. King. "Speaking at the opening meeting in Winnipeg on Wednesday, I publicly stated it was then fairly evident there was little or no possibility of any tariff bill becoming law at the special session of Congress which had been called for the purpose of considering a revision of the tariff, and that in all likelihood our Parliament would be again in session before any tariff revision would take place in the United States," said the Premier. "Upon that position I stood much of what I had to say at the meetings I subsequently addressed with respect to the present position of the tariff controversy and the attitude of our Government in regard to the tariff."

NOTE OF EXHIBIT
"The fulfillment of that prediction by the action of the United States Senate, deciding to terminate the special session on Friday of this week, and a vote of finality to its accuracy, which could not have come more opportunely than at the moment of my return to Winnipeg, where the prediction was made at the start of my western tour. I then also stated I had returned during the summer from conference with Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, over the tariff situation in the United States in the belief that the tariff situation was a matter which should be settled by the two governments."

"With the announcement of the failure of the special session of Congress to enact any tariff legislation, I believe the country will give a sigh of relief that at least the tariff party was not in office in Canada when the special session was called, and that a cool-headed rather than a 'red-blooded' attitude has been maintained by those responsible for the making of policies which affect so directly our international and internal relations."

Winnipeg, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—The action of Canada in establishing legislation of its own in foreign capitals will strengthen the hands of Empire, Premier King said, addressing the Winnipeg Canadian Club at a dinner given in his honor last night. The British Ambassadors and Canadian Ministers worked in harmony, he said.

"Hon. Vincent Massey has been as fine a representative of Canada at Washington as any country could have," Mr. King declared, adding that the British Government would be the first to admit he was also a great help to Great Britain in promoting goodwill between the Empire and the United States.

GOODWILL GROWS
Some people thought the solidarity of the Empire might be endangered by friction between Britain and Canadian Ministers abroad. The effect, Mr. King said, would be exactly the opposite.

CONFESSION OF MURDER ON NEW DEVICE

MACHINE USED
Colvin said he had obtained the confession through the use of a "lie detector" and injections of a "truth serum." Henry Clay Agnew, attorney for Mayer, yesterday obtained a temporary injunction, returnable to-morrow, restraining the prosecutor from further use of these methods to obtain a statement from the prisoner.

AUTO CHARGE
Mayer was arrested in California in possession of Bassett's automobile a few days after Bassett had disappeared. He was tried and convicted of larceny of the automobile, but authorities were convinced Mayer could explain the mystery of Bassett's disappearance. Bassett had come to the state from Baltimore, Md. He met Mayer when the latter responded to an advertisement for the sale of Bassett's automobile.

EXPERT FROM ILLINOIS
Colvin said he had employed Leonard Kiehl, assistant state criminalologist, to assist him in solving the mystery of Bassett's disappearance, at the recommendation of August Vollmer, former chief of police of Berkeley, Cal., and a consultant of President Hoover's Crime Commission.

MANY QUESTIONS
Mayer, the prisoner, regarded the use of the "lie detector" as a lark at first, Colvin said. Use of the contrivance was started November 14 and for seven days Mayer was bombarded with questions most of them having to do with the whereabouts of the body of Bassett. All questions were answered with a bald "yes, sir," or "no, sir," until attention was focused on similarities in the two papers which had been found. Mayer smashed the "lie detector" when he was pressed for answers in regard to the body of Bassett, and thereafter he was shackled and required to wear an "Oregon boot" while being questioned.

By nothing the reactions on the registering device of the "lie detector" the search for the body of Bassett was narrowed down to an area of two square miles, including both Bobbell cemeteries, deep woods adjacent to one of them and a small white house on which Mayer had paid a $10 rent deposit at the time of Bassett's disappearance.

"TRUTH SERUM"
The "truth serum," which was said to produce the effect of an anesthetic by which the patient is numb in all faculties except that of speech, was injected hypodermically after Mayer had become recalcitrant.

The "lie detector" consists of a leather covered plate on a chain placed around the suspect's chest to record respiration and a rubber tube wrapped around an arm to record blood pressure. Reactions from both parts of the device are registered on a drum of ruled paper which when completed is said to show a chart of the emotional reactions.

DENIAL BY MAYER
Seattle, Nov. 22.—A blanket denial of his reported "confession" of having slain James Eugene Bassett, missing former naval officer from Baltimore, was made by Decato Earl Mayer in a newspaper interview several hours after Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin had announced the "mystery man" had admitted the crime.

NEWFOUNDLAND COAST CHANGED BY QUAKE

NO PERSONS FOUND
Houses riding the seas in Burn Inlet were searched by rescuers on the steamer Daisy immediately after the wave had struck, but no living thing was found. In the upper room of one of these drifting dwellings a light still burned in the dark.

LOST AFTER RESCUE
From one of these houses Mrs. Vincent Kelly of Kelly's Cove had rescued two of her children. She had gone back in a desperate effort to save the third when the habitation was carried away and neither mother nor child was seen again. The house was carried out to sea.

Another family was seated at tea. The house suddenly shifted and tumbled back to its position. As it moved again the father seized a child under each arm and, with his wife on his back, struggled through the water to safety.

NOTORIOUS WON RACE

A motorist approaching Burna was on a thrilling race with the oncoming tide when the bridge he was crossing went down as the rear wheels reached the farther shore. When the wave struck the steamer Daisy it rose high above the government wharf, and as the water subsided came to rest on the bottom where there had been a normal depth of eighteen feet. Port au Bras, where seven lives were lost, suffered the worst property damage when several small schooners and many other boats were lost. The most serious condition, in the opinion of the deputation, is the privation caused by the destruction of houses, of the winter supply of provisions and fuel and of practically all fishing gear.

SUPPLIES SENT
St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 22.—The Government steamer Eagle, carrying physicians, nurses and provisions, to-day was bearing the devastated coast of the Burn Peninsula on the south coast of Newfoundland, where twenty-six men and women and children were known to have perished when a big tidal wave swept the cliffs of Burn for a distance of thirty miles, following Monday's earthquake.

Toll of the gigantic wave was variously estimated here at twenty-six to thirty-six lives and property loss of great extent in small fishing villages.

Pointe aux Seales and Port au Bras were most severely hit, eight persons drowning at the former place and seven at the latter. The rest of the list was: Taylor's Bay, 4; Lord's Cove, 4; Kelly Cove, 2; Lethbridge, 1.

SWIFT AWAY WITH HOUSES
In the immediate vicinity of Burn, most of the victims were women and children, swept away in their homes. A fund is being collected here for the people whose means of livelihood have been demolished. Boats, fishing stands and other necessary equipment of the fishing industry crumbled before the disastrous wave.

WE SHOULD TAKE ACTION NOW

THE TIMES OBSERVES WITH SATISFACTION that the morning paper supports the idea of improving Victoria's waterfront along that stretch from the outer wharves through Beacon Hill Park to Cook Street. This is a matter in which we have been interested for a considerable time. What is necessary now is co-operative action.

As our contemporary very properly says, any other city possessing such a waterfront as ours long ago would have capitalized it for the purpose of civic development; but much of the stretch in question still is in a more or less primitive and untidy state. True, the full glory of the broom in June is a sight to behold. Tourists on incoming and outgoing steamers are thrilled and much impressed by it. But these banks of yellow disappear after a very short time and little is left but a large unkempt area.

It has been suggested that a Parks Board be created and entrusted with the development of some scheme of beautification. This appears to us to be the proper way to go about the matter. It is a proposal which all well-wishers of the community should support. It would be in their own interest to do so. Nature has lavishly bestowed upon us many natural advantages; our attractive coastline along the Dallas Road is not the least of them. But Nature only supplies the "raw material." It is for us to fashion it for our own use.

It is only necessary to drive along the Dallas Road any fine day in summer or winter to get an idea of how our own people appreciate the view obtainable from that point. It could easily be converted into a new attraction for tourists at a reasonable cost.

NOT TO BE TRUSTED

ALTHOUGH CANADA FOLLOWED THE lead of Great Britain when the Baldwin government broke off commercial relations with Soviet Russia, it by no means follows that full diplomatic and economic recognition of the Moscow government by the present administration at Westminster implies similar action on the part of the authorities at Ottawa.

The whole situation involving Great Britain's relations with Russia has been brought into relief again by the comments of the Communist newspaper Pravda. It interprets the recent disorders in South Africa, Palestine and the Arab countries, together with conditions in India, as "a mighty revolutionary movement under way within the Dominions of the British Empire." It says Mr. Henderson, the British Foreign Secretary, is wrong if he thinks the Soviet government can guarantee the security of British capitalism in the Dominions "where oppressed nationalities are revolting against their oppressors."

Pravda then makes a statement which no doubt the British Government will require explained. It says the Soviet will not make capitulations in the new agreement with Great Britain and will especially avoid any commitment binding it to answer for the activities of the Communist Internationale. This is rehearsing the old fable that the Communist party, the Soviet government and the Third Internationale are three distinct political organisms wholly independent of one another. The claim is too thin to be taken seriously. The government can control them all when it wants to.

Canada offers but barren soil for the seeds of Communism; but a few of the disciples of Moscow are within our gates. They are dreaming of world revolution and they talk in the lingo which goes with it. Whether they get more than their ideas and their propaganda from Moscow may be difficult to discover. It would seem fairly safe to assume, however, that they are not in the business of re-making the world for the pure love of the thing.

It is this aspect of the situation the government at Ottawa will be wise in scrutinizing very carefully before resuming relations with the Soviet. Canada desires all the trade she can get; but she is not so dependent upon increasing her business with Russia that she is willing to put up with any sort of insult to the intelligence of her people that the Moscow government and its tools care to offer.

BEAVERBROOK'S SCHEME

CANADA, FOREMOST AMONG THE British Dominions, after Great Britain, must say what future, if any, there is for Lord Beaverbrook's project of free trade within the empire—with a tariff against the rest of the world. This is how The London Times sums it up, after digesting the newspaper magnate's speech in the House of Lords the other day, and then says:

The question at issue, is not, one of ideals on which all are agreed, but of methods, and these depend on whether Lord Beaverbrook's plan has any material backing from the Dominions. His policy can not be fulfilled within the walls of the British Parliament, but only with the Dominions who have the last word on the subject.

The Times then says with emphasis: "Whatever way their answer goes, theirs and not ours" must be the effective decision.

It is not necessary to recall that Canada has shown that she has long been in favor of freer trade within the empire. In 1897 Sir Wilfrid Laurier made it easier for British exporters to sell their wares to Canada. He reduced duties on goods from Great Britain. This is the policy of the present government at Ottawa. But Canada can not say to Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the Irish Free State, or other countries within the British Commonwealth of Nations what they should or should not do in this matter.

Lord Beaverbrook's first job is to convince the taxpayers of Great Britain that it would be in their interest to vote for free trade within the British Empire and a tariff against the rest of the world. If he is able to do that, not forgetting Mr. Baldwin's experience in 1923, he will have paved the way for a realization of his ideal. The London Times, of course, is away off when it says that the whole question is one for the Dominions to settle. It must look nearer home. Canada and the other Dominions already have contributed to the principle which the Beaverbrook plan embodies.

CHICAGO THE INGENIOUS

IT TAKES CHICAGO TO STARTLE THE world, not only with its spectacular rackets, but also with its ingenious devices to raise money and defeat the law. A case in point is that of a few "enterprising" gentlemen who banded together and founded a "law and order" league, whose avowed purpose was to support the prohibition law. Their first move was to enlist the aid of an ardent temperance worker, a kindly-disposed woman of sixty years, her name appearing on the organization's stationery as president to give it the proper "tone."

The stage being set for the crusade, its members went into action. From friends of prohibition they collected funds, its president, delighted to be of service in such a fine cause, contributing herself and persuading her friends and acquaintances to do likewise. In this fashion a substantial sinking fund was established. Then the real work began. The first business of the organizers was the selling of liquor to retail saloonkeepers. They had two very powerful sales arguments. They promised protection to all who bought from them. Men who refused to buy they raided. Hence, part of the time the "law and order" league was a crusading prohibitionist organization, and for the rest of the time it was a liquor-selling company. At least this is how the Federal authorities described it when they became aware of its activities.

It would be difficult to imagine anything more ingenious—or lucrative. Money came in from two sources. The president, wholly oblivious of the organization's true character, naturally felt satisfied with the nature of the uplift work to which she had committed herself. Her friends who had contributed to the funds likewise remained in blissful ignorance.

The whole incident illustrates the necessity of proper control of quasi-public bodies. Yet we do not have to worry much along these lines in Canada. How were law-abiding Chicagoans to know that the concern to which they had contributed money was not performing the duties it was supposed to perform? There was no way they could find out. They had to take things in good faith. After all, of course, conditions of modern life require us to do so all the time. In our complex world it is not always easy to find out for ourselves whether people and organizations with whom we deal are what they pretend to be or not.

In other words, we have to take it for granted that most people are honest, that they "play the game" and do the right thing. It is only when something like the Chicago affair to which we have referred takes place that we realize how much we still have to depend upon the honesty of purpose of "the other fellow."

IN THE DARKNESS HIMSELF

THE OTHER DAY A CLERGYMAN IN Montreal told a woman's auxiliary of the church that conditions in western Canada were worse than conditions obtaining in darkest Africa. He said there were no ministers here to perform marriages, and the general implication of his remarks was that we in this part of the world were only on the fringe of civilization.

It is not for us to suggest what the reverend gentleman should do to correct his impression of conditions in the west. Possibly one of the great transcontinental railway companies would furnish him with free transportation and meals so that he might obtain some light in his darkness. Happily we are not worrying in the atmosphere of "darkest Africa." As a matter of fact we get along very well. But it seems a pity that any citizen of this country, particularly a canon of the church, should let his fancy roam to this extent.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE WHEAT GAMBLE

The alleviation of the wheat growers' troubles is due mainly to the vagaries of Canadian weather. A draught has cut down the Canadian yield and prices have improved accordingly. It is regrettable that the improvement in this country has been caused by the misfortune of a neighbor. We should have preferred to have it come in a different manner, but while sympathizing with the Canadian farmers, we are no less happy that our own have escaped the troubles which a few weeks ago seemed to be in store for them.

THE KELLOGG PACT AND PEACE

Under the Kellogg Treaty about all that can be done is to remind a nation which seems inclined to go to war that it has promised not to go to war until every means of peaceful settlement has been exhausted. This kind of "reminder" has very properly been sent to both China and Russia. It may be sufficient and effective. All must hope that it will be. But at the same time no thoughtful man can fail to perceive that if the United States were in the League of Nations, and if Russia were also in it, action would not have to be limited to polite remonstrances.

EVER-PRESENT HELP

In every first-class hotel in Canada, probably in every bedroom, the Bible has been placed for the use of guests by an organization called the Gideons. On Sunday night in Ottawa, at the Chateau Laurier, four hundred volumes of the Sacred Law will be added to the present supply for distribution in the new rooms. A dedication service will be held in the Music Room at 9 p.m. to which the public are cordially invited.

Representatives of the Gideons will be present at the service. Something will be told of the work they are doing. In a brief address by the national secretary, although it may appear that in many rooms the Bible is rarely opened, there must have been many occasions when it has been discovered as an ever-present help. In any case, it is freely offered. So unobtrusively presented by the Gideons, there could be no more substantial gift to fellow travellers.

A THOUGHT

But in every nation he that feareth Him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with Him.—The Acts 2:35. We must not be afraid of neither poverty nor exile nor imprisonment; of fear itself only should we be afraid.—Epictetus.

Loose Ends

A great reform is proposed—for the betterment of our police and the beautification of our streets—an awful thing happens to this column and to many others—we arrive early and find we are too late.

By H. B. W.

AT THIS season, when aspirants for civic office are busy shaping the policies which they would like to put into effect next year, it should be opportune to suggest a reform on which any man could ride to overwhelming victory. Let some real tribune arise among our people and demand the abolition of policemen's helmets on humanitarian and aesthetic grounds and a grateful electorate, I feel sure, would sweep him to the top of the polls.

NO REFORM is so long overdue as this: none of greater potential value to our city. Now helmets were all right at the time of their invention, back in the days of early Sumeria, in Greece and Rome, and in the Middle Ages, when a gentleman never knew when another gentleman would tap him on the head with a double-bitted axe. But now-a-days, when double-bitted axes are not in general use, the advantage of the towering round helmet of the Victoria Police Department is not clear. True, such an erection looks rather imposing on a bronze statue, and when all policemen were large and in olden times fat and barely able to move, they sat well atop a dignified mountain of flesh. But latterly styles in policemen have changed. With excellent judgment the Police Commission has introduced into the force many young men, lean, hard, keen fellows who would be useful in a riot, but who cannot do credit to the present uniform. They simply can't fill it. The all-embracing helmet sinks down upon their noses, obscures their faces and confines their view to a small space around their feet.

IF THE Police Commission's idea is to hide its policemen this arrangement has some merit, though it resembles the classic habits of the ostrich. Few criminals would mistake a policeman for a fireman, a postman or telegraph messenger boy even in this disguise. And the policeman, for his part, lost in the great gloomy spaces of his helmet, must have all he can do to avoid lamp posts without distinguishing criminals on our streets. What goes on in those vast upper regions as the policeman tramps his beat has always been a matter of wonder.

IT IS argued, of course, that our police, the surviving relics of the original London Pealers, give the city a quaint, old-fashioned air of great value to the tourist industry. In the same way we should preserve the horse and the tandem bicycle, which undoubtedly would attract hordes of spectators, and to be really successful we ought to go further and dress our officers of the law like the Beefeaters of the Tower, who bring a rich tourist revenue to England. Or a simple costume of frockcoat and top hat such as they used to wear in England at one time would charm visiting Americans. But for real service our police should be clothed in something like the smart uniform of the Royal Canadian and Provincial Police Forces, which are equipped for work and not for the amusement of visitors. And for the purposes of the tourist season we could always keep a few stuffed models of the old-style helmet and all, over in the museum, where the guests of the city could photograph them just to prove to the folks at home that they had been in an old-world town.

AN AWFUL thing happened to this column the other night. This would have been of no importance, of course, had it not happened to several hundred more worthy people, and to a great cause. You may recall, if you can think back two or three days, that this column somewhat frenziedly advocated stern measures to deal with people who come late to theatres, and said many hard things about them. To the amazement of this column this was followed by the announcement of the Royal Victoria in this paper Tuesday that its current play, the epic "Journey's End" would start at 8.15, and after the curtain went up no one would be allowed to take a seat.

UNHAPPILY this notice escaped the notice of this column until too late. Instead, this column, like many other people, always reads the paper a day late. It is so much more comfortable than the usual arrangement, for on Tuesday when you see how bad things were on Monday you can always hope that they have picked up by this time, if you understand what I mean. I recommend this arrangement except to theatre-goers. Theatre-goers will be well advised to read to-day's paper to-day. If this column had read Tuesday's paper on Tuesday everything would have been all right. Unfortunately it read Monday's paper, which advertised the performance for 8.30. So did several hundred other backward people, with the ghastly result that we all arrived promptly at 8.30, to make

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, NOVEMBER 22, 1904

Members of the Victoria Fish and Game Club are displaying commendable energy in the endeavor to provide adequate protection for British Columbia game.

New York, Nov. 22 (Associated Press)—A London dispatch to The Sun says that a dispatch to The London Express from Nagasaki gives a new version of the report of the torpedo boat destroyers from Port Arthur, which is said to have occurred at the time the Rastromy left.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity, light to moderate winds, generally fair and cold at night.

On January 1 of next year the province will take over from the City of Victoria the Darcy Island lazaretto. This announcement was made in the course of the proceedings at last night's meeting of the city council.

Thomas Jefferson and an all-round excellent company presented "Rip Van Winkle" before a large house at the Victoria Theatre last evening.

Captain Otto Buckholz, who up to the time of the sale of the steamer Venture to the Boocoville Steamship Company was master of the vessel, is again in the city, having turned over his command at Vancouver. The captain has been with the Venture ever since she was built, and in fact saw almost every timber in her hull put together.

Wm. Sloan, M.P. for Comox-Atlin, came over from Vancouver last evening and left for Nanaimo on this morning's train.

Prince Kong Yu Wei, the president of the Chinese Empire Reform Association, which has branches among all the Chinese settlements living outside of the Empire, is expected in this city some time during the present week.

ABBEY'S
A Gentle Laxative

CHARACTERISTIC ART URGED FOR THIS PROVINCE

Dr. L. S. Klinck, President of
U.B.C., Expresses Views
During Lecture Here

High Standard of Education and General Character of Scandinavians Told

Desirability of erecting an architectural masterpiece that would be characteristic of the rugged grandeur of the Province, such as were the Cathedral at Trondheim, the Stadhuis in Stockholm and the Rathaus in Copenhagen, was emphasized by Dr. L. S. Klinck, president of the University of British Columbia, during his lecture on "Scandinavia Revisited" before the University Extension Association at Victoria College last night.

Dr. Klinck referred to these buildings, distinctively Scandinavian, as an example of the expression of the people. He considered them of immense value, not only from an architectural point of view but also from the standpoint of the effect they produced upon visitors to the land. They were truly Nordic and expressed the character of the people that had erected them.

He hoped to see in the province a "building which would give equally convincing expression to and which would mirror as faithfully and in an original and captivating form as did the Scandinavian triumphs of architectural skill, not only the character and civic spirit of British Columbia people, but would also embody something of the rugged strength, the awe-inspiring grandeur and entrancing beauty of the encircling mountains."

NEED OTHER DEFINITE ARTS

Characteristic works in the realm of music, sculpture and painting were also to be sought here, the speaker added. Such, he said, would be aids to cultural and enjoyable participation in the fine art of living.

During his address, Dr. Klinck gave a few of his personal impressions of Scandinavia. He said that he had visited during his tour.

Emphasizing the fundamental honesty of the people, he told of a bank he had visited where huge sums of money were piled on counters. No teller's cage was in evidence and virtually no means of resisting robbery were to be found, he stated.

Topographical features of Denmark, Norway, and Sweden were outlined by the speaker. Contrary to his belief, he had found large tracts of virtually barren land in Denmark, and generally considered highly cultivated and arable. Norway, with its innumerable fjords, streams, high mountains and pretty farms had a great appeal for him, while Sweden's well ordered forests, cultivated communities and rivers had proved an exceptionally pleasing panorama.

SCANDINAVIANS CULTURED

Highly cultured were the majority of people of all three countries, stated Dr. Klinck. Among the middle classes, knowledge of five or six languages was not at all uncommon, and a thorough grounding in the classical literature of all countries was enjoyed by all the educated strata of the people.

Development of the arts had also reached a high point in the Scandinavian countries, Dr. Klinck said. He referred to the successful singing and folk dancing festivals of the countries, their paintings, architectural monuments and general culture.

Great pride was taken in gardening, especially in Denmark, where families passed on their plots in the commons from generation to generation.

An extremely high standard of education was general throughout the lands. But with it went the attendant evil of high taxation.

The farmer-student was dealt with in some detail by the lecturer, who referred to the common practice of the people in working the land for a certain period and then leaving it to others while they studied.

During his address, Dr. Klinck referred to the early close contact between the Scandinavians and those of Great Britain. Not only had the Norsemen exercised a profound influence in modeling the character of Great Britain, but the English and Scotch had reciprocated by returning their culture to the home of the Vikings. Among the outstanding leaders in the campaigns of Gustafus Adolphus had been many Britishers.

The valor and daring of the old Viking rovers was intimated in the description of one of the old Norse ships in which they used to journey to Iceland, Greenland, the Bay of Biscay and other distant points.

VIKING SHIPS

The typical ship was seventy-five feet long, had a crew of thirty rowers and was equipped with sails, the speaker stated. This craft was popular among the Norsemen as early as 800 A.D., Dr. Klinck said.

Particularly impressive was the method of restoring the old buildings in the three countries, the speaker stated. When stones crumbled in their ancient cathedrals, the general structure of the buildings was photographed and cast in moulds so that the repairers were able to rebuild the crumbling sections in their original forms.

Many other interesting features of the land and people of the Scandinavian countries were given during the lecture which was greatly appreciated by the audience.

Mode Aeroplanes to Be Feature of Circus

Don Murphy, Vancouver
Champ, to Give Exhibition at High School Show

Model Flying Club May Be Organized Here; First Show
To-night at 7.30

Featured by an exhibition of model aeroplanes flying by Don Murphy, Vancouver's champion, Victoria High School's annual circus will open in the gymnasium of the school to-night at 7.30 o'clock. This event has always been very popular among the students and their parents, and with the addition of this act, interest will be keener than ever.

Murphy will arrive on the afternoon aeroplane from Vancouver and will bring three models to fly at the circus and at least five more for exhibition purposes. The planes he will fly will be his R.O.G. rise off the ground, his motor tractor and a stunt plane. In the Thanksgiving Day meet in Vancouver the R.O.G. model won the prize by flying for twenty-one and a half seconds, his nearest rival keeping his plane up seven seconds. The motor tractor, with a wing spread of not more than twenty-four inches, remained aloft for twenty-one and three-fifths seconds. Just what stunts he will make his motor tractor will be a mystery, but loops and rolls are expected to be much in evidence.

Included in the planes he will bring over for exhibition will be a model of the Junkers plane Bremen, which

"Knowing what I know of conditions in British Columbia in the present unsettled portions of the Province, I incline to the opinion that the spectacular announcement made by the doctor was rather designed to distract public attention from the quota of blunders and miscalculations which his Government is daily perpetrating upon the people."

OTHER AREAS NEED ROADS

"Speaking at meetings in the interior, I said that while I was in favor of the ultimate construction of the Alaska-Yukon Road, yet I could see where at least $50,000,000 and probably $100,000,000 would require to be spent in the present settled portions of the Province, before we would be justified in building the Alaska-Yukon Road."

"The people of the Kootenays and the Okanagan, the people of Vancouver Island, and the people in my own portion of the Province, Prince Rupert, desire connection with the rest of the Province, which connection would cost of itself some $3,000,000, will not, at this juncture, consent to 'tax themselves' to build a road to have a few trucks truck away up into Alaska for a short period of three or four months in the year."

"The building of the Alaska-Yukon Road is a heavy undertaking, and I think that the Government will find it desirable to forget anything of the kind until the requirements of the settled portions of the Province are adequately met."

In the present condition of the money market, the Government will find it impossible to carry out a road programme upon the scale which public reports would indicate, and, as a matter of fact, with the squandering the money, which is now going on, the Government finds it necessary to increase taxes to take care of present commitments, not to speak of additional road programmes. I predict that the government will show a deficit, during the coming season, running into the millions."

TOLMIE INCONSISTENT

"One of the chief charges leveled against the administration of which I was a member was that we had increased taxes to the extent that industry was hampered and capital would not come into the country. Notwithstanding the charges that were made against us of high taxation, the Prime Minister of this Province, Dr. Tolmie, this year wrote an article for The Financial Times, London, in which he pointed out the advantage of both capital and people to come to British Columbia, and one of the arguments that he used was 'our low and equitable taxation.' Notwithstanding the fact that this taxation is so low and equitable that he proposes to increase it, and he certainly will require to increase it to meet the tax demands of his administration. The one hundred and one commissions which he has appointed will run into a tidy sum if not into millions."

HIDING BEHIND REPORTS

"During the last session, the Ministers of the Crown were constantly hiding themselves behind their departmental officers. We may expect to find the same thing in the government, incapable of passing competent opinion upon the important questions with which it must deal, will hide behind the reports of these various commissions."

Turning to Federal Liberal policies, Mr. Pattullo remarked: "I do not think that British Columbia sent the support to the Liberal administration at Ottawa which they used to journey to Iceland, Greenland, the Bay of Biscay and other distant points."

The typical ship was seventy-five feet long, had a crew of thirty rowers and was equipped with sails, the speaker stated. This craft was popular among the Norsemen as early as 800 A.D., Dr. Klinck said.

Many other interesting features of the land and people of the Scandinavian countries were given during the lecture which was greatly appreciated by the audience.

At the close of the address, Dr. Klinck explained some of the paintings and tapestries which he had brought over to illustrate his talk.

Prof. F. H. Elliott expressed the thanks of the assembly to the speaker.

New westward across the Atlantic Ocean. This plane was built by Moon Ocean, a Chinese High School student in Vancouver, and at the Terminal City meet was awarded forty-eight points out of a possible fifty. This plane stayed in the air for twenty seconds, thirteen seconds longer than all other planes in the fuselage model class. In addition to this model, Don will bring at least five other fuselage planes which he considers will be of interest to local enthusiasts.

MAY FORM CLUB HERE

Squadron Leader Earl McLeod and Aubrey Robert, aviation expert of the Vancouver Province, will accompany Murphy on his trip here and will be present at the organization meeting at High School Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. It is the hope of the visitors and those in charge of the circus that a Model Aviation Club will be formed in this city, and with that possibility in mind, Don Murphy, Squadron Leader Earl McLeod and Aubrey Robert will meet all interested at this meeting. The making and flying of these model planes will help to make the younger generation here more air-minded.

At one of the Vancouver meets 2,000 spectators cheered the boys and their planes as the competition progressed while the winners were rewarded with cups and shields. This championship is to be an annual affair and is expected to grow in popularity each year.

In addition to the model plane exhibition, seven other acts are to be presented in the big tent to-night while the show is here. To be far more numerous than in preceding years, the performance will be repeated again at the same time on Saturday evening, and it is the hope of those in charge that the event will be well patronized.

Conservative Party, who toured almost every portion of the Province in going about the Province as I have done, I have tried to ascertain, as free from prejudice as possible, just what the effect of the visit of Mr. Bennett has been. My opinion is that he made no headway, and the reason for this, I think, is that his arguments were so obviously inconsistent and against the trend of present-day thought.

MR. BENNETT'S TARIFF ARGUMENTS

"I have seen no criticism of the Liberal administration at Ottawa, either from Mr. Bennett or from the Conservative Party generally, other than in the matter of the tariff. We may assume, therefore, that they are quite satisfied with the present Government at Ottawa, except in the question of tariff. Let us, therefore, consider a few phases of this question, and some of the arguments advanced by Mr. Bennett."

"Mr. Bennett's tariff proposals are guided by the nature of the community in which he happens to be speaking. If he is in the fruit belt, he must have protection for the fruit grower; while if he is in the timber belt, the record of his party is to advise to the welfare of the timber industry that he preferred to talk upon the importation of New Zealand butter rather than the Australian treaty, which is of such benefit to the timber industry, but which the Conservative members in Ottawa strenuously opposed."

MOST PROSPEROUS COUNTRY ON EARTH

"Mr. Bennett, in criticizing the Ottawa Government in respect to tariff issue, says that eighty-seven countries in the world have increased their tariff since the World War, and that Canada is the only country that has decreased its tariff. Whether this is the case or not, I have not looked up, but let us assume it to be the case. My reply to this is that Canada has made more progress since the war than any other country on earth."

NEW ZEALAND BUTTER

"Mr. Bennett and his followers criticize the Australian treaty and some forty odd other treaties made by Canada with various countries, yet, when speaking in Powell River, Mr. Bennett skated over the thin ice of his argument on the Australian treaty, and deals with the importation of New Zealand butter. He said that we are importing millions of pounds a year of New Zealand butter, and that we actually manufacture less butter in Canada than we import from New Zealand. He pictured in glowing terms the immense areas of nutritious grazing lands in this Province capable of supporting huge numbers of stock more than now in this Province; yet, here we are actually importing New Zealand butter."

"Arguments of this character sound plausible unless one stops to look at the other side of the picture, and the answer to Mr. Bennett's statement? I will tell you the answer, or, better still, go to the Fraser Valley and ask the farmers there what is the answer, and they themselves will tell you. Yes, they import New Zealand butter because they find it more profitable to dispose of their dairy products in milk form, and because it pays them so to do, they buy New Zealand butter, and, after all, isn't it a good thing that we do buy something from one of our sister nations in the British Empire?"

"Mr. Bennett says that we must manufacture everything at home, and buy everything at home. If that be true, what becomes of our world trade? During the last two generations, everything that we have planned in Canada, including the building of our railways, in which we have over a billion dollars invested, has been based upon the assumption that we are going to constantly increase our trade and our population."

CANADA'S POSITION SOUND THROUGH FOREIGN TRADE

"Canada could not to-day meet its obligations were it not for the truly remarkable position which it occupies in the realm of foreign trade."

"Mr. Bennett says, and Dr. Tolmie agrees, that when in opposition to the former there was a new product to go out of this country to be manufactured in the United States, to the destruction of the economic welfare of the people of Canada, and the building up of industry in the United States."

"Everybody knows that there is a measure of export of raw products from Canada to the United States, and everybody knows that it would be all very fine if every natural resource in this country could be manufactured to its highest process of refinement, and sold to other nations of the world. Canada, however, cannot, nor can any other nation on earth, dictate to the rest of the world the terms upon which the nations must do business with her."

"When Mr. Bennett said that we were exporting raw products to the United States, did you hear him tell anyone that we were importing raw products from the United States to be manufactured in Canada? No, he did not tell you that, but the fact of the matter is that we import annually more than the value of the raw products from the United States, to be manufactured in Canada, to be shipped out of Canada to be manufactured in the United States."

"The Tolmie administration, having come into office, has turned right about-face upon this question of the export of raw logs from this Province. Formerly the argument was that we put up for years against our administration because of the fact that we allowed some two per cent. of our total production to be shipped, yet, now, when in office, and it was necessary to allow in the conduct of timber operations a measure of export; that it was better to have the dollar in your pocket obtained from this export than there was no local market, rather than the logs should be eaten up by the sawmills at this moment, notwithstanding the bitter attacks that were made upon us upon this question, an Order-in-Council is at the present moment in force authorizing the Minister of Lands to allow the export of raw logs upon such terms and conditions as he may see fit."

"Mr. Bennett says that 700,000 Canadians left for the United States during the last seven years because the tariff statement would require to be checked up, but let us admit it, for argument's sake, and see where it lands us. I should like to meet a man on his own ground, because if you can beat him there, you can beat him anywhere. Let us admit that 700,000 Canadians went to the United States during the last seven years."

"When I was a boy I lived in the Province of Ontario for eighteen years under the Sir John A. Macdonald Government. Sir John A. Macdonald came into power, leading the 'Conservative' forces, in 1878, upon what was known as the 'National Policy,' generally described as the 'N.P.' That policy was nothing more or less than the present protectionist policy of the present-day Tory Party. Our young men were flocking from Canada to the United States. The American border cities were crowded with Canadians, New York, Buffalo, Toledo, Chicago, New York, and there were more Canadians in the city of Chicago alone at that time than in the whole city of Toronto, and Canada was so full of Canadians that in 1892 the Tory Party was ousted from office, and the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier came in."

"Under the wise administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and under the able leadership of Sir Clifford Sifton, who was Minister of the Interior, a vigorous immigration policy was adopted, and to-day you have built up the splendid Northwest territories, which are of the very bone and marrow of the Dominion of Canada. People flocked in from the other side of the line in scores of thousands. We have our Canada to-day as Canada now is."

"In 1911, under the usual five-yearly stunt of the Tory Party, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government went out of office, and Mr. Borden headed a Conservative Government, subsequently followed by Mr. Meighen. The Borden-Meighen Government lasted for ten years, from 1911 until 1921. During that period Mr. Bennett was a Minister of the Government, and was Minister of Agriculture. Were they looking after our boys and girls at that time? During that period of ten years, 750,000 Canadians went to the United States."

"The time to do a thing is when the opportunity is there to do it. Why did not our friend, Mr. Bennett, and our friend, Dr. Tolmie, keep these 750,000 Canadians in Canada? What is this great remedy that they have for curing all the ailments from which the body politic suffers? Would it not have been a good thing for them to have applied it at that time rather than now, in and year out indulge in the blue ruin gloom, which they always do when out of office. With the Tory Party it always has been, when out of office, 'rule or ruin.'"

"Mr. Bennett and the Tory Party say that the United States was built up under a protectionist policy, and that Canada should do the same. I say that the United States was built up in spite of its protectionist policy, and that there are other reasons why this stupendous growth came about."

of millions of unassimilable people in the United States to-day.

NINETY PER CENT AT HOME

"Our present Minister of Education, when in opposition, was always criticizing university expenditures on the ground that the people of British Columbia were paying for the education of our boys and girls, only to have them go to the United States. During last session, when the university estimates were up and I asked the Minister of Education, whether he proposed to continue to educate our boys and girls only to have them go to the United States, he replied that he had looked the matter up, and he now found that some per cent of our boys and girls stayed here."

"The Government finds responsibility very different from the irresponsibility which they showed when in opposition. When they were out of office, it was anything to get into office, and now that they are in office, they are like the proverbial beggar on horseback, riding it to death."

LIBERALISM VS. TORYISM

"I have referred at some length to some of the arguments advanced by Mr. Bennett, and I think you will agree with me that he is upon very flimsy, yet typically Tory ground. Mr. Bennett's policy is essentially a narrow policy. He wishes to make the rich richer, while Liberal policy has always been based upon the welfare of all the people, and I want to-night, for a few moments, to indicate that not only has there always been a most distinct line of cleavage between Liberalism and Toryism for centuries gone by, but that there is to-day the same unequivocal and clearly defined difference that there always has been."

"The Liberal Party has a great responsibility to protect the public against the public generally upon matters of public policy and public welfare, and in so doing it should see to it that the public is informed upon the principles of Liberalism."

PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT TAX

"You recall that our Liberal administration put upon the statute books more beneficial legislation, dealing with the domestic and social life of our people, than any other state, province, or country in the world. This legislation, as you know, consists of mothers' pensions, old age pensions and many kindred matters, upon which I need not elaborate. What is the attitude of the Conservative Party? The Minister of Finance, in presenting what is usually the most important matter to come before the House, namely, the budget, had prepared a written address. It was a carefully prepared address, and was the statement of the Government with regard to our social legislation.

"He said that we have had too much paternal legislation, and that we will have to call a halt. A Vancouver Conservative member followed him, giving expressions to similar sentiment. There was a look of consternation upon the faces of some of the Government supporters when they realized what the political effect of this statement would be in the country, but the Government had spoken as it felt, and this is an illustration of the difference between Tory thought and Liberal thought."

"Again, a bill was introduced into the Legislature to incorporate a company to operate wireless telephone. This will eventually be a huge concern, because it involves wireless telephones all over this Province. We Liberals in the House thought it desirable that provision should be made in connection with the capital structure of the company, that would give a measure of control over the rates to be subsequently charged by the company. This would seem to be a reasonable precaution to take at the very inception of the company, and we moved an amendment to the bill accordingly, but what happened? The Government voted it down."

"Again, when some public utility amendments to the 'Water Act' were introduced by the Government, we Liberal members thought that provision should be made in connection with the capital structure of all public utility companies that would provide that rates would be based only upon the money honestly and prudently invested in the operation, and not upon what is generally known as 'watered stock.' One would think this a wise provision to protect the public against exorbitant rates, but what happened? The Tory Government voted it down."

"Again, regarding the alienation of water powers, the Liberals thought that no further large powers for public utility purposes should be granted without the consent of the Legislature by resolution. In other words, the representatives of the people would pass opinion upon the alienation of these huge water powers, which are the property of the people, but the Government would do it down."

"Again, in connection with the 'Minimum Wage Act' which was being enforced by our administration, a Conservative member introduced a bill repealing the old act, and substituting a new measure. The new measure was so innocuous and futile that the Labor member for Fernie, holding the bill in his hand, said that it was not worth the paper that it was written upon. The Liberal members opposed the new bill doing away with the old act, but the Tory Government put it through."

"When I demanded the right for every British citizen to see Orders-in-Council, which Orders-in-Council are nothing more nor less than written decisions of the Government in respect of public business, and which are the property of the people, my request was voted down by the Tory Government, and in words that are of record in the House, and they stand there as a record of Toryism in the extreme, because the record recites that it is the inalienable and unrestricted right of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to do with Orders-in-Council as he may see fit. In other words, the Government is supreme over the Legislature, and not the Legislature over the Government."

LEGISLATURE SUPREME

"Fortunately, no Legislature, by mere words, can take from itself the right of control over the Government, which, in the final analysis, it has. The inalienable right which the Legislature stated was in the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council—that is a right which cannot be taken away—could not be taken away by the Legislature itself, so that the statement of fact is not a fact, but is merely another example (Concluded on Page 14)

TOAST WOMEN WHO WON RIGHT TO SENATE SEAT

Senator Dandurand Speaker at Montreal Luncheon to Celebrate 'Persons' Victory

Montreal, Nov. 22.—Canadian women by the hundreds celebrated the fact that they are now "persons" eligible for appointment to the Senate at a luncheon here Thursday. It was organized by the Montreal Women's Club to commemorate the recent decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London. Congratulations were received by letter and telegram from many leaders in the public life of Canada.

The toast to the "Pamphlet Five" women of Alberta who took the case to the Supreme Court of Canada and then to the Privy Council, was proposed by Mrs. John Scott of Montreal, well-known leader in women's affairs. She said the important effect of the decision was not that women were eligible for Senate or legislative council appointment, but that the principle of equality had been established.

Senator Raoul Dandurand, one of the chief speakers, said that the Privy Council decision had delighted him. He had been much impressed by women delegates to the League of Nations and assured his audience that any woman appointed to the Senate of Canada would be welcomed to the Upper House.

MARRIAGE BAN ON WIDOWER

London Woman's Will Cuts Husband's Bequest If He Remarries

Imposing a ban upon her husband's remarriage, an unusual will was left by an Englishwoman recently. Mrs. Beatrice Gwendoline de la Salle, of London, whose will has just been proved, left to her husband, Mr. Horace de la Salle, an annuity of £600 "while he should remain a widower, or a life annuity of £200 in the event of his remarriage."

There have been several instances recently in which widows have been penalized in this manner, but very few in which widowers have.

The gross value of Mrs. de la Salle's property is £29,969, with net personalty of £9,800.

She directed that, if a year should be paid for the upkeep of the grave of her dog in the grounds of Oaklands Park Hotel, Weybridge, Surrey, and that she should be buried at Weybridge, "or at some place at least twenty miles from London."

She has appeared in exhibition dances on numerous occasions in this city and is one of the most graceful exponents of her art.

BENNETT SPEAKS

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, addressing an Ontario Conservative Association banquet here last night, said high protection was not the policy of the Conservative Party. All his party should be given a fair fighting chance to develop their own country and compete against foreigners in their own home market. This, of course, would involve a measure of protection, he said, but no high protection policy his opponents attributed to him.

Ottawa Boosts Winning Streak to Three Games In N.H.L.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

SIDEGLIMPS ON the life of the major league baseball player in the winter time when he idles away the months until the old call is resounded again for spring training are interesting. The large majority of them spend their time in the off-season out of doors, but quite a few of them have regular occupations.

Babe Ruth, who throughout the season is known as the "King of Swat," took out a hunting license recently and plans an extensive hunting trip later in the winter. For the present the Babe is waiting for the football season to end as he is an ardent fan. Few of the New York Yankees have regular winter jobs. Bob Shawkey, new Yankee manager, is now in the Canadian woods on his second hunting trip of the year. Herb Pennock has a silver fox farm at Kennet Square, Pa. Walter Hoyt has a mortuary establishment at New Rochelle, N.Y. Lou Gehrig, the Yanks' star first baseman, recently secured a position as a stock and bond salesman.

Mickey Cochrane and Mule Haas, Philadelphia Athletics stars, have a vaudeville act. Al Simmons and Jimmy Fox, got back recently from a barnstorming tour of the West. Jimmy Dykes is Philadelphia's most popular after dinner speaker and indications are that he will continue along that line until far into the winter. George Earle Bush has opened an insurance office in Philadelphia. Howard Kohnke, hero of the first world series game, has gone back to manufacturing giant tarpaulins for playing fields.

Eddie Collins, Bing Miller, Joe Bush, former Philadelphia Athletics pitcher and Sad Sam Jones, Washington slub artist, are killing time up in the Maine woods. Lefty Grove is having great luck hunting in his mountain home at Lomacoming, Md. Joe Boley is taking things easy at his home in Mahoning City, Pa.

Most of the members of the New York Giants spend the winter hunting, fishing and in other forms of outdoor recreation. Bill Terry has an automobile agency in Memphis, Tenn. Ed Roush has a farm near Oakland City, Ind. Melvin Ott remains at his home in Gretna, La. John J. McGraw will leave shortly for his annual winter vacation in Havana.

Two members of the Brooklyn club have left estate establishments. Darryl Vance in Clearwater, Fla. and Rubi Pressler in Cincinnati. Babe Herman, who finished second to Lefty O'Doul in the National League batting race, has been appearing in vaudeville, but will return soon to his home in Glendale, Cal. Hank E. Berry, veteran catcher, has a shoe store in Savannah, Tenn.

Kiki Cuyler, Chicago Cubs' outfielder, will spend quite a bit of his time this winter refereeing basketball games around his home at Flint, Mich. Pat Malone, Cubs' pitcher, who had the Athletics beat until the ninth inning of the fifth game, has been pitching winter baseball.

Art Shires, Miller's first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, has been threatening to try his hand at prize-fighting. He has never got any closer to the ring than having his picture taken in fighting togs. Taylor Douthett, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, recently married and is on his honeymoon. Charley Berry, Boston Red Sox catcher, is football coach at Grove City College, Pa.

COLWOOD PLAYS AT MACAULAY

Interclub Golf Fixture Scheduled For Sunday; Draw Is Announced

With twenty golfers drawn from the ranks of the better players in the Colwood Golf Club, "Mickey" Richardson will invade the Macaulay course on Sunday for the postponed interclub fixture against the Equilateral team.

In the feature match of the day, Goldwyn Terry and Frank Thomas, two of Colwood's first-string mackie-wheaters, will meet Norman Wallace and C. H. Christopher, Macaulay ace.

The teams seem to be evenly matched and close play should feature the tourney from start to finish.

The draw and starting times, with Colwood players mentioned first, follow:

9.30—E. H. Ismay and J. H. Richardson vs. W. S. Morris and F. White.
9.45—G. Straith and H. Brown vs. D. Fyvie and T. Angus.
9.45—T. Leeming and D. Haynes vs. R. Whitlaw and C. L. Campbell.
9.45—L. D. Rines and J. B. Benning vs. E. D. Freeman and J. M. Simpson.
9.50—T. G. Gray and H. P. Hodges vs. G. Jones and H. Pigot.
9.55—G. Wilkinson and J. H. Lee vs. R. Freeman and G. R. Florence.
10.00—F. Thomas and G. Terry vs. N. Wallace and C. H. Christopher.
10.05—P. Edmond and E. Milbank vs. J. Burns and F. C. Sydie.
10.10—J. R. Macintyre and F. Hall vs. J. Burden and J. G. Smith.
10.15—S. Marling and G. Hall vs. J. G. Smart and H. A. Ismay.

The course will be closed all day to visitors.

Lions and Bucks Battle to a Draw; Goalies Brilliant

Opening P.C.H.L. Game at Portland Ends With No Scoring; Percy Jackson and Aitkenhead, Portland's New Net Custodian, Turn In Sensational Performances; Sanderson Misses Open Goal in Overtime Session; Few Penalties.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 22.—Before 3,800 wildly cheering first-nighters, the Portland Buckaroos and Vancouver Lions, 1928 champions, played a scoreless overtime game here last night in the first Portland game of the 1929 season. It was a session in which the little rosy-cheeked Jackson and the tall blonde Aitkenhead, opposing goalies, covered themselves with glory. Aitkenhead, Portland net man, came to the Bucks this season from the New York Rangers.

To-night's Hockey Game at Seattle To Be Broadcast

Hockey fans will be interested to learn that to-night's game at Seattle, between the Eskimos and Vancouver Lions, will be broadcast over radio station KOL. Ken Stuart, popular sports announcer, will report the game. No doubt several games in which the Victoria Cubs are taking part in Seattle will be sent out over the air.

TIGERS AND QUEENS ARE ALL READY

Two Great Eastern Football Teams Will Decide Championship To-morrow

Both Clubs Full of Confidence; Special Trains Will Carry Hamilton Fans

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Two well-balanced football teams completed their training last night for the eastern Canadian championship to be played at Kingston Saturday. The finalists are Queen's University, champions of the Intercollegiate Union, and Hamilton Tigers, Big Four titleholders. Both teams put the finishing touches to new plays and short ball-carrying drills on snow-swept gridirons. The squads were put in full strength and both teams will field their strongest line-up for the game unless unforeseen developments occur.

Cochran, Hamilton's coach, continued last night to emphasize upon his charges the necessity for a stubborn defence to offset the unusual power of the Tiger offense.

Cochran Mike, who has been drilling his players in an effort to build them up, did not drive the Tigers last night as he has previously this week. Tigers will entrain to-night for Kingston. It is expected two special trains will be required to transport the thousands of Hamilton fans who wish to see the game.

Keating Hoopsters To Play Shawnigan

Keating basketball teams will act as hosts to-night to two clubs from Shawnigan Lake. The first game between the women's teams will get started at 8 o'clock, followed by the men's fixture.

FORESTERS FOUR P.C.H.L. TEAMS WINNERS OF HOOP GAME

Lodgemen Score 32-22 Victory Over Fast "Y" Quintette; Addie Leads Scorers

Standard Laundry Noses Out Hudson's Bay; Mac and Mac in First Win

Foresters, Standard Steam Laundry and Mac and Mac were the winners in the City League basketball games played at the Centennial gymnasium last night.

The Foresters defeated the Y.M.C.A. five by a 32-22 score; Standard nosed out the Hudson's Bay women 29-16, while the Mac and Mac quintette handed the Motor Mechanics a 30-10 setback.

In the Foresters' "Y" game play was very even for the first twenty minutes, the score board reading 13-11 at half time. The "Y" had hard luck with their shots in this period, often having three and four tries without drawing any results. The lodgemen did not get in close to the basket and had little success with their long shots.

Early in the second half the scoring machine of the Foresters went into action and baskets rolled up in quick succession. Addie and Martin engineered some pretty passing attacks that ended in baskets which turned the score in their team's favor.

ABDIE HIGH MAN

Addie, with 14 points, was the high scorer for the winners. The Robins and Bradshaw collected 3 points apiece to lead the "Y" in point getting.

The teams' and individual scores follow:

Foresters—Addie 14, Martin 8, Conn. Reynolds 7, Irving 5, Moir and Penning.

Y.M.C.A.—Cook 2, Shoemaker, Robins 4, Bradshaw 3, Gill, Lewis 1, McPherson and Harwood 3.

CLEAR OF CHLAW

By virtue of their victory over the Hudson's Bay, the Standards managed to keep clear of the cellar position in the women's division of the league, while the defeat sent the Bays down as sole occupants of the last berth.

Lead in the first half and increased this margin by another basket in the final half. The score stood 9 to 7 at the rest interval and play remained even throughout the remainder of the game.

Elsie Esler with 12 points and Margaret Frost with 11 were the leading scorers.

The teams and individual scores follow:

Standards—M. Williams 4, McDonald 1, Pelas 2, Kelley, Frost 11, McLeod, Mac and MacLaughlin 2.

Senators Come From Behind to Nose Out Hawks

Frank Finnegan's Goal in Overtime Gives Them 6-5 Victory Over Chicago in Free-scoring Battle; New York Rangers Defeat Maroons by 2-1 in Wild Game at Madison Square Garden; Free-for-all Fight Seen at Finish; Canadiens Forced Into Overtime to Beat Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The defence players of the N.H.L. are beginning to get the hang of playing a tight game under the new rules, but they have a long way to go if they have any hopes of bringing the scoring down to the level of former years.

Two of last night's three games in the National Hockey League might have been played in any other season as far as the scores would indicate, but the third gave ample evidence of this year's free scoring spirit.

The battle between the Stanley Cup finalists of two years ago, the New York Rangers and Montreal Maroons, resulted in their second 2-1 score of the season, with the Rangers again the victors. The Canadiens of Montreal had to go into overtime to nose out the Toronto Leafs, 3-2. At Chicago a second overtime game produced a far different result. Ottawa's fast-stepping Senators gave the Black Hawks their first defeat of the season by a score of 6 to 5.

The Rangers and Maroons, bitter enemies since their Stanley Cup clash in 1927, seemed more intent on developing some worthy opponent for Art Shires, baseball's well-known pugilist. The game was one of the roughest ever played in Madison Square Garden, nineteen penalties being called.

The bell was a signal for a free-for-all fight, starting in the penalty box and embroiling most of the players on both teams before it was stopped.

CANUCKS JUST WIN

The Canadiens had almost as close a game to defeat the Toronto Leafs, who, despite their pre-season promise, have yet to win a game. The wings of the "Flying Frenchmen" apparently have not sprouted for the current season, and it took some heady playing by "Battiship" Leduc, big defense man, to win the game. Leduc came out of the penalty box late in the overtime period, took a pass from Joliat and smashed the winning counter into the net.

Ottawa, one of the league's surprise teams of the year, had to fight uphill all the way to take over a decision from Chicago.

The Black Hawks broke away for a three-goal lead, but Ottawa tied it up before the end of the first period. Again in the second frame Chicago went ahead, only to have Ottawa even it at 5-5. Clancy passed to Frankie Finnegan for the winning goal just eighteen seconds after the overtime period started, after they had battled furiously without a score through the third twenty minutes.

New York, Nov. 22.—The New York Rangers outscored the Montreal Maroons last night to score their second 2-to-1 victory of the year over their Stanley Cup rivals of two seasons ago. The game, one of the roughest and fastest ever to take place in Madison Square Garden, ended with a crowded penalty box and a free-for-all fight after the bell.

The line-ups: Rangers—Boesch, goal; Bourque, defense; Johnson, defense; F. Bourque, center; W. Cook, wing; F. Cook, wing; Thompson, Murdoch, Keating, Foster, Queneville, Vall and Goldsworthy, subs.

Maroons—Wash, goal; Dutton, defense; G. Boyer, defense; Phillips, center; Ward, wing; Trotter, wing; Munro, Stewart, Smith, Northcott, Robinson, Wilcox and Siebert, subs.

Officials—Clegg and Siebert, refs. Ritchie.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Rangers, Thompson, 4-0.

Second period—2, Maroons, Siebert from Siebert, 4-1; 3, Rangers, Bourque, 1-4.

Third period—No score.

CANADIENS DEFEAT LEAFS

Montreal, Nov. 22.—After two draws and a loss, Montreal Canadiens last night succeeded in breaking into the win column of the National Hockey League, but it took them several minutes overtime before they captured a tightly-fought match from Toronto Maple Leafs. The score was 3 to 2.

Toronto—Chabot, goal; Smith, defense; Day, defense; Blair, center; Bailey, wing; Cox, wing; Duncan, center; Conacher, Petterson, Horne, Byrd, Primeau and Grant, subs.

Canadiens—Hainsworth, goal; Mantha, defense; H. Burke, defense; Moreau, center; Joliat, wing; Wansle.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Canadiens, Hainsworth, 1-0.

Second period—2, Maroons, Siebert from Siebert, 4-1; 3, Rangers, Bourque, 1-4.

Third period—No score.

Overtime—11, Ottawa, Finnegan from Finnegan, 1-0.

George Godfrey Is Barred From Fights in N.Y.

New York, Nov. 22.—The ups and downs of George Godfrey Godfrey finally came to an end on Tuesday when the licence of the giant negro heavyweight was revoked by the New York Boxing Commission.

Named as the probable opponent of Max Schmeling for an Atlantic City match, only twenty-four hours ago Godfrey now stands a good chance of being barred in all states connected with the New York Commission.

The action was taken in consequence of the black menace had fouled out in a bout with Jimmy Byrne, of Louisville.

GROVES BOASTS FINE RECORD

Wing Hay's Opponent For Saturday Night Has Beaten Top Notch Fighters

Alex. Groves, Port Angeles fighter, who meets Wing Hay in the six-round event of the Central Boxing Club show Saturday night, has defeated some of the best boys in the northwest.

He is credited with victories over Tommy O'Connell, Shorty Green and Ray Woods, besides having beaten a number of other top-notchers.

The advance sale of tickets for the show has been good and a bumper house is expected to greet the first pair of mitt slingers when they step into the ring at 8.45 o'clock.

Four other good bouts have been arranged and the fans are assured lots of action.

The complete card follows: Main event, six rounds, 125 pounds—Wing Hay, Victoria, vs. A. Groves, Port Angeles.

Special event, six rounds, 145 pounds—Kid Stubby, Victoria, vs. Johnny Evans, Port Angeles.

Four rounds, 135 pounds—Johnny Duffy, Victoria, vs. G. Smith, Port Angeles.

Four rounds, 135 pounds—Denny Pastore, Victoria, vs. Eddie Mayo, Port Angeles.

Four rounds, 140 pounds—A. B. Jennings, Victoria vs. Eddie Judson, Port Angeles.

Victoria West and Sons of England, Division 1, juvenile soccer teams, will hold a practice to-morrow afternoon at the Central Park at 2.30 o'clock.

The Wests will be selected from the following: Lund, Luttrell, Pearce, Campbell, Kennedy, Rickman, Colgate, Dawson, Richard, Graves, McInnes, T. Graves and Drysdale.

opponents 9-6 in the final twenty minutes.

Spencer, with 12 points, led the scorers.

Alan Lemarquad refereed all three games.

The teams and individual scores follow:

Mac and Mac and Prior—Velich 4, Seabrook 4, Spencer 12, Partington 8 and McFadden.

Motor Mechanics—Johnston, Farmer 2, Rollinson 2, Graves 4, Anfield and Thompson 2.

Twenty-six Teams To Be In Action On Many Grounds

Eighteen Football and Eight Rugby Clubs Scheduled; Saanich Thistles and Victoria City Meeting in Feature Soccer Game; Esquimalt to Mix With Jokers; J.B.A.A. and Canadian Scottish Meet for First Time in Senior Rugby League; Great Game Expected.

One of the finest football and rugby programmes to be offered fans this season is scheduled for to-morrow afternoon. Eighteen soccer teams, including six First Division clubs, eight junior and four juvenile, will be in action, while the oval ball artists will have two senior and six intermediate teams in action. This will give Mr. Spectator plenty of variety from which to choose. With so many games in progress the playing fields of Victoria will present a very busy aspect.

The complete programme of soccer games follows:

FIRST DIVISION

Saanich Thistles vs. Victoria City at Royal Athletic Park; referee, Robb. Esquimalt vs. Jokers at Beacon Hill; referee, Armstrong.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Oaklands vs. Victoria City at Spencer's Park. Royal Oak vs. James Island at Hampton Road. K. of C. vs. Sidney at Lower Central Park.

JUVENILE LEAGUE—DIVISION II

Saanich Thistles vs. Victoria City at Royal Athletic Park; referee, McIvor. Esquimalt vs. Jokers at Beacon Hill; referee, Armstrong.

SENIOR LEAGUE

Canadian Scottish vs. J.B.A.A. at the Willows. Y.M.C.A. vs. Victoria College at Victoria High School grounds. J.B.A.A. vs. Oak Bay Wanderers at Oak Bay Park.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE

University School vs. Canadian Scottish at University School. All games will commence at 3 o'clock.

INTEREST IN SENIORS

With the weaker sides lined up against the strong men in the intermediate league, interest will centre on the senior struggle between the Bays and Scottish.

BOTH BEAT NAVY

Odds are about even on the senior game of the day. Each team has gained an easy victory over the Navy, the Bays defeating them 11-0 and the Scottish whitewashing them by a 26-0 score.

However, these scores cannot be taken as fair estimates of the winners' caliber. The Bays met the sailors on a good day and had to battle right to the finish, while the Scottish took advantage of the tares' discomfiture in the downpour last Saturday and ran up a high score.

The addition of Campbell Forbes to the scrum of the Scottish will doubtless have popular opinion in favor of the milliamph. Last year Forbes, who is counted one of the three best forwards in the league, proved one of the mainstays of the Bays' attack. His loss will doubtless be felt by the oarsmen in their game to-morrow.

The backfields of both teams are considered about equally effective. Both

Hoop Teams Are Advised to Get Amateur Cards

Basketball teams in the City League are reminded of the fact that they have to take out Amateur Athletic Union cards for all their players. Jack Taylor, president of the league, announced this morning that all the teams must have their cards before the end of the month, and any player who has not obtained his card by that date will not be allowed to play.

Chicago Stadium Has Lost Huge Sum of $112,025

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Worries piled up yesterday for directors of the $7,000,000 Chicago Stadium Corporation as they attempted to find an acceptable president to succeed the ousted Paddy Harmon. An accountant's report ordered by the corporation directors, showed it had lost $112,025 during the first eight months of operation.

Sammy Mandell Wins By a K.O. Over Azzarella

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 22.—Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill., lightweight champion of the world, knocked out Joe Azzarella of Milwaukee in the second round of their eight-round non-title bout here last night.

Azzarella was no match for the champion. Last night the bout Mandell, by his tactics, indicated that he wanted to display his ability to 3,000 Milwaukee fans who filled the hall.

Mandell weighed 126½ pounds, a quarter-pound less than Azzarella. have been strengthened by the addition of new men. The Bays are expected to play "Ally" L. Marquand on the three-quarter line along with Art Pell, Gavin Hume and possibly Homer Caviness. Roy Gaunt will also play in the backfield.

THREE-QUARTERS STRONG Brian Hunnings, plunging three from last year's Pirates, proved effective in last Saturday's game, and should be on the line again to-morrow. Pete Turgoose, Jack Horne, Bern Kinsman, Bill Oliver will also take the field for the Scots.

In the halfback division the squads are also well matched. Young Henry Cockin and Gordon Godwin, for the Bays, and Bill Pollard and Bob Tye for the Scots have had considerable experience and showed to advantage in the first two games of the season.

Only in the pack do the Scots show any superiority over their opponents. If their scrum works smoothly to-morrow they may gain the decision through its play.

Irrespective of the outcome of the match, a high brand of rugby is expected to be put up.

Minor League Hockey Results

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The tight race for first place in the International Hockey League still remains deadlocked. Two games were played last night, and in both instances the leaders were returned victors. Windsor Bulldogs humbled Niagara Falls, 3-2, while Detroit Olympic tied with Windsor at the top of the standing won a hard-fought game from London Panthers, 3-2, after ten minutes overtime play.

ENLISTING MEN FOR ARTILLERY

Recruits For 62nd Field Battery Responding Well at Duncan

Duncan, Nov. 22.—First enlistment of men for the 62nd Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, took place Monday evening at quarters established in the Agricultural Hall building. The officers of the unit were in attendance, namely, Major A. B. Matthews, D.S.O., M.C., commanding officer; Captain T. H. S. Horsfall, adjutant, and Lieut. I. D. Mackenzie, M.C.

More than a dozen recruits were present, but enlistment forms could not be completed as the medical officer was called away before the necessary examinations could be made. Altogether forty-five men are to be taken on. Drills for the present will be held on Monday nights, when new recruits will also be enlisted.

HEALTH PLANS ARE DEBATED

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Leaders of Canada's medical profession met here in the third conference of the Canadian Medical Association, yesterday, and dealt with problems of Dominion-wide interest, including national health insurance, health instruction in public schools and the retention of medical men in the rural districts.

CAUCUS HAS BUSY TIME

Conservatives Sit Many Hours in Effort to Iron Out Party Troubles

Important matters relating to the interest of the party and its policies and legislation proposed for the next session of the Legislature kept Conservatives gathered in Victoria yesterday for the party caucus busy until a late hour. The caucus was regarded as of such great importance that only three members of the Legislature were absent—Lieut.-Col. Cyrus Peck, member for the Islands, who is in England; H. D. Twigg, who is out of the city; and James H. Beatty, who is ill. Defeated candidates attended the caucus as well as members of the Legislature. Starting in the morning sessions were held until noon, when the caucus adjourned to the residence of Premier Tolmie to be guests at Cloverdale for the rest of the day. Luncheon was served and at 2:30 o'clock the caucus was resumed until 6:30 for dinner. At 8:30 o'clock the caucus reconvened for a late session.

"I was in very poor health before my baby was born and had to lie down two hours every day. My mother persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped me wonderfully. My baby is not very big but he is strong and healthy. I recommend the Compound to every woman I hear complaining. I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. William Hardy.

MRS. JOHN FILER

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nervousness, tired feelings and underweight and it helped me to general good health. My nerves are much better and I have gained pep, have a good appetite now and feel well and strong. I am a housewife and am able to do my work every day. I am willing to answer any letters I receive from women asking about Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John Filer.

Times Explorers Meet Mischievous Fellow, Jack Frost

By CAPT. F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT
Special Correspondent of The Victoria Times and Head of the Expedition to the Home of Santa Claus

By Wireless
Santa's Castle at the North Pole:
In yesterday's dispatch I told you how Santa had promised to take us to call on a very dear friend of his, and Mrs. K.'s curiosity was aroused of course. Who could it be? But Santa only smiled and said "The Greatest Artist in the World." Santa is full of surprises to kiddies on Christmas morning and it is part of his nature to give happy surprises, so he is going to give us one too.

"Come on and get up," Santa's great voice came booming through the ice palace. Mrs. K. looked into a sheet of ice to see if her Parka hood was on straight and took special pains in dressing and fixing herself up to meet this mysterious person. She could not tell herself no longer. "Santa, come tell me," she coaxed, "who is this great artist? It has kept me awake half the night trying to imagine who it is."

"Well, now," said the good Saint in apology, "I did not mean to keep you awake. Can't you guess? One thing I must tell you, wrap up good and put on your heavy furs so the artist won't get a chance to paint his name on your faces."

"Oh, it's Jack Frost," we exclaimed.

It was bright and early when Santa shouted "Get into your sleigh and bring the motion picture camera along."

MADE EVERYBODY HAPPY

He laughed and played with the camera, slipped the reinder on their flanks and made everybody happy.

"You'll admire this great Artist, Jack Frost," Santa told Mrs. K. "He is the greatest sculptor and painter in the world. Have you ever seen a snowflake through a microscope, or when you went to school caught it on your slate? It is a wonderful formation of tiny ice crystals in intricate designs of the finest lacework. You have seen his pictures on your window pane on a cold morning and mother has said, 'Look, Jack Frost has been here.' But there are wonderful sights in store for you if he invites you into his crystal palace. Jack has decorated my castle with spires and cupolas, but as we have to work with metal and wood and have to have fires and heat he could not do anything inside for me. You should see the interior of his crystal palace. Words cannot describe it. I have often passed by Niagara Falls at Christmas, just after Jack had touched the cateract with his magic wand, and have seen hundreds of people gaze in astonishment and admire it, but wait until you see his own palace."

The gnomes hitched up the reindeer and the party climbed into sleighs. Soon we were speeding across the gleaming ice and snow toward the edge of the Polar Sea. We saw great glaciers piled high as mountains and these huge icepeaks were brilliant in the moonlight.

SEES JACK FROST

"Jack Frost has seen us already and is coming to meet us," Santa shouted. Santa pointed to a high jagged iceberg on which we could see a figure. The figure came running at great speed, and as it approached it seemed to be a boy about twelve years old.

His face was young and rosy and his eyes were dark and shining with mischief and glee. Jack Frost, for it was Jack, was dressed in a white fur parka, the Eskimos call it an Ar-to-ga, and covers the body without being open in the front. On the head of his parka, he wore two ears of the Arctic hare, and his feet attracted attention. The shoes looked like the stuffed heads of the Arctic hare with eyes and long "rigging" ears. The soles were of ice. The Arctic hare is the fastest animal in the North, hence Jack wore its symbols.

"Meet Jack Frost," Santa introduced us. Jack bowed politely and shook hands, but we quickly drew our hands away for Jack's fingers were colder than ice. Santa was wiser, he kept his gloves on.

"I might have missed you," Jack said, "For I am just about to start on my winter tour of beautiful ice world with my ice pictures. I have some beautiful new ice designs this year." Jack seemed to be utterly carefree and sublimely happy.

OLD-FASHIONED WHITE CHRISTMAS

"That's right, Jack," said Santa. "Let's have an old-fashioned white Christmas this year." I am sure the boys and girls on Vancouver Island will enjoy the sleighs and skates I am going to bring them."

Jack seemed to have the secret of perpetual youth, for although he has been working at his trade for centuries he is still a boy, and even though he has been painting snowflakes and snowflakes and snowflakes for centuries, he still wears his mischievous boyish smile.

Mrs. K. took quite a fancy to him and her heart warmed up to the cold boy.

I had set up my movie camera when we saw Jack, and while we were talking I cranked the camera to record our meeting. There will be some interesting pictures shown in Victoria when we get back.

Jack invited us to his ice palace, and we started off, but because of the Arctic Hare shoes he wears, he is such a swift traveler, he could not go slow enough to keep up with his guests, so he picked up the movie camera and tripod, which slowed him down.

JACK FROST'S PALACE

Jack's palace is surely a wonderful place. It looked like a giant's cave in a mountain of ice crystal clear and shimmering like diamonds and decorations as delicate as the finest lacework. We passed through gardens of ice flowers in the most beautiful forms and varieties, similar to the ones you see on window panes. Wonderfully carved icicles hung down like vines. The shining columns that supported the roof were ornamented with lovely and intricate patterns of ivy and vines. It was of almost impossible and unbelievable beauty and everything shone and sparkled with great radiance. Jack was delighted with our exclamations of delight as we beheld his marvelous art, and then left us for a moment. When he returned he carried his magic wand.

"Before you go, Jack, show these people how you perform your wonderful work," suggested Santa. "The Captain, no doubt, would like to take a motion picture of it."

I quickly set up my camera and then secured a marvelous picture. You have often seen on a cold morning a vapor or fog rise from a river, and the nearby trees and bushes covered with a heavy frost from this vapor.

Well Jack stepped to a crevice in the ice from which arose such a vapor from the water underneath. Jack waved his wand, and in the intense cold the particles of moisture were built up into flowers and ferns, a foot high.

In a twinkling a bed of roses, chrysanthemums, lilies, dahlias and carnations of the most beautiful patterns and interwoven with ferns and lacework rose before our eyes and the lens of the camera. I was delighted with the marvelous pictures I was taking to show folks at home, when Jack, seized with a sudden impulse cried, "Whim, I am off, goodbye." Before we had time to say Jack Frost he was gone, and for a few minutes we could see his figure waving his wand, speeding swiftly and gracefully over the ice.

"Jack is a mischievous boy," said Santa. "Boys as a rule need watching, but nobody can watch over that boy."

NIPPED SANTA'S NOSE

"Yes, you are right, Santa," replied Mrs. K. ruefully. "He is mischievous and I did not watch him. Even while we were standing here he nipped my fingers and nose."

As if it were answer to her words we heard a silvery mocking laugh floating over the ice from the distant figure.

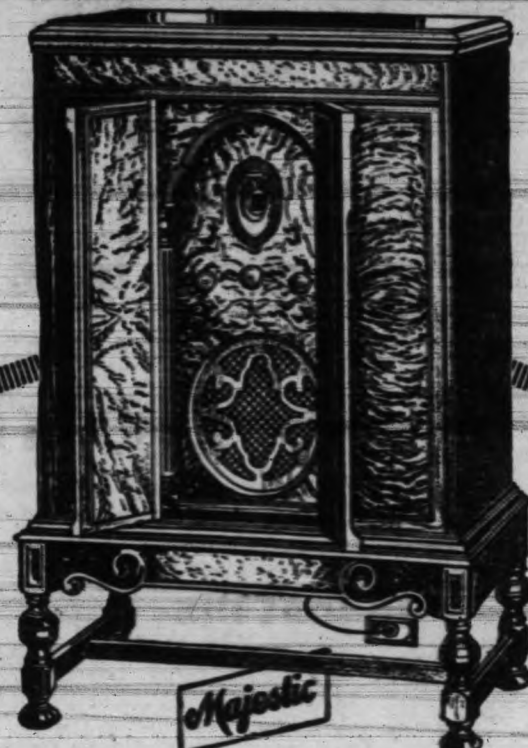

BLIND CAMPAIGN OFFICE CLOSES

Late Contributions Can Be Sent to Empire Realty Office, Fort Street

Headquarters for the drive for $50,000 for the Canadian National Institute were closed yesterday. Fred Landsberg announced, with the sum of $31,804.74 raised. Yesterday afternoon the fund was swelled with several donations including one for $100. While the Fort Street office has been closed Mr. Landsberg still has hopes that more subscriptions will be received. Canvassers and workers who may have later results to report are asked to call a Mr. Landsberg's office, Empire Realty Company, 737 Fort Street. Anyone seeking to help the drive approach the $50,000 mark is asked to call at the office.

Here is a photograph witnessed to us last night with the message of the meeting of Santa Claus and Jack Frost, snapped by Captain Kleinschmidt and told in to-day's instalment.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Failure of Liverpool to hold its advance to-day led to setting of wheat here.

Commenting on the Argentine situation, B. W. Snow says:

"The Broomhall suggestion this morning that on an average yield of say thirteen bushels, the crop may aggregate 20,000,000 bushels of wheat in Argentina this year, strikes us as rather untimely. The Broomhall records from 1921 to 1927 show that only one crop in seven years reached an average as much as thirteen, and excluding phenomenal crops of 1923, averaged only 11.5 bushels."

"Just what a suggestion of a possible bumper year of yield this year should be made at this time, when nearly one-half of the crop is three weeks to a month away from harvest, and when drought, frost and rust by its own admission have taken heavy toll, and are operating to reduce yields, is a little difficult to understand."

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—Wheat gave a temporary demonstration of strength at the opening when prices were fully two cents over the close last night. There was a little buying by exporters against overnight sales but the upturn was largely due to the strength in Liverpool, that the market being from 2 to 3 1/2 higher when our market opened and was 1/2 lower.

Winnipeg was also somewhat stronger than Chicago, our May going to a premium of 9/16 over Chicago May, which brought in considerable selling of the local future against purchases in Chicago. The demand here was quickly filled up with later weakness in Liverpool and Chicago, this market broke rather badly prices getting under the previous close by more than one cent with general liquidation going on.

The news continues more or less bullish and while there is export business daily, it is not in sufficient quantities to keep the sample stocks up in the north American window to any extent. The local cash market was very dull. Millers reported business as very slow with no interest being shown.

Argentine reports indicate extremely poor yields in some sections and better than average in others, but the menace of black rust is hanging over the crop which may still considerably cut down production. Would not press wheat on further declines.

Coarse grains.—These markets were slightly higher at the start based on strength in wheat but there was no trade and no interest shown beyond a little inquiry for rye from Canadian distillers. There was no business reported in any of the coarse grains to-day.

Flax—Market was extremely dull with no demand from any quarter.

"None of This Marrying on a Shoestring for Me," Cries the Youth Who Would Make His Fortune Before Marrying; To Which Dorothy Dix Replies,
"Love and Happiness Two Things You Can't Put Off"

I DON'T see you about with Mary Blank any more," I said to a young man of my acquaintance the other day; "she is so pretty and fine and sweet that I hoped you would make a match." It is because she is so pretty and fine and sweet that you don't see me about with her," he replied. "With a girl like Mary absence of body is better than tons of resolutions to remain platonic, and I keep away from her because if I didn't some moonlight night I would hear myself telling her that she was the only one and dooming us both to double wretchedness. For you see, dear lady, I am not ready to marry yet. I haven't the price of a wedding ring."

"Wedding rings are not necessarily expensive," I returned, "and generally the plain gold ones outlast those of platinum set with diamonds and have more happiness in them."

"Well, I want my future gilded when I put on the good old ball and chain," he went on gayly. "I want to annex a wife to my other pleasures, not substitute her for them. I don't want to give up my clubs, my good clothes, my car, my trips, my little luxuries, for the dubious pleasure of living in a cheap bungalow or a two-by-four flat and pushing a perambulator for a Sunday afternoon's diversion and being harassed and worried wondering where the money is coming from to pay the grocery and the doctor's bills. Besides, after I had pulled a woman down to this sort of penury, how do I know that I would still stay in love with her enough to compensate for all the sacrifices I had made for marriage? Mary, for example, is tremendously attractive to me because she is fresh and gay and carefree and always daintily dressed. But suppose she was overworked and tired and shabby and smelted of the kitchen and sterilized milk instead of expensive French perfume? Would she still be as attractive to me or would my tired eyes roam off in search of some other woman who hadn't been up half the night with a sickly baby and fried her complexion out over the cook stove and whose father or husband dressed her up in chiffons? Believe me, I have seen too many romances that petered out under the blight of the installment collector and too many marriages that went bankrupt just because they were not adequately financed. So none of this marrying on a shoestring for me. I am going to wait until after I have made my fortune and can afford to marry."

"You speak," I said, "as if love was like a pot of jam that you could order in whenever you felt that you had a little money to spare and that you would like to sweeten up life a bit, but, unfortunately, this is not the case. Love is the gift of the gods, bestowed capriciously and without regard to our convenience and desire."

"You can put off marrying until you are thirty-five or forty and have an income upon which to support a wife in luxury, but because the hour has struck when you are able financially to marry no miracle will happen that will give you back the rosy idealism of boyhood nor the fire and passion of youth. Nor will it automatically supply the beautiful young girl who is madly enamored of you, for it is only in fairy tales that the golden-haired princess always appears at the psychological moment."

"Of course, at middle age you may fall in love and some woman may fall in love with you, but you cannot count upon this as a certainty. For after we have turned away from our door and denied it bite and sup, it has a way of leaving us and refusing to return to us when we whistle for it."

"Certainly no man has a right to marry unless he has some settled way of supporting a family. There can be neither peace nor happiness nor security in the home where the wolf howls forever outside of the door, where little children cry for food and the husband's and wife's nerves are ragged with fear for the future."

"But this margin of safety is all that is necessary. It doesn't take riches to marry on. Money doesn't guarantee domestic felicity, for love and congeniality and understanding and sympathy, the things that make marriage a success, are not for sale over the counter."

"So, I think a man makes a great mistake if he puts off marriage until he has accumulated a fortune, because if he does he misses so many of the very best things in life."

"He misses the high enthusiasm that sends a youth starry-eyed out on the great adventure, feeling that nothing else matters as long as he has the beloved woman by his side. He misses the dreams that make a man see an angel in some ordinary girl."

"For by the time a man is middle-aged he has grown cold and cautious and learned to discount every emotion. He misses the fun of making his first home with his own hands, for no palace that he may subsequently own ever fills a man with the pride and delights of the cottage which he and his bride paid for by the month and where they painted their own woodwork and varnished their own floors and made their own furniture. He misses knowing that he is loved for himself alone and he misses that comradeship, that closeness that comes to the man and the woman who have begun at the bottom and worked up together and who have shared every hope and plan and aspiration of each other."

"And so, son," I said, "if I were you I would not wait until I got rich to be married. Love and happiness are two things that you can't put off. You have to take them now or never."

Sister Mary's Kitchen

(By SISTER MARY)

There is no fruit that stands the test of time as well as the homely apple. Day after day we use them without becoming tired of them. Cooked or uncooked, they are healthful and popular. The purpose for which apples are wanted has much to do with the choice of varieties. Some kinds of fruit cook quickly and are ideal for sauce or pie. Other varieties cook slowly and are preferred for baking. Often apples are wanted for dessert purposes and are known in the market as "eating" apples.

Fully mature but not over-ripe fruit is desirable. These are firm, fleshed, fragrant and bright skinned. The color should be yellow or creamy white where the apple shades out from red. Greenings and Yellow Newtons seldom show a trace of red, but they are fully ripe if they have changed from a greenish to a yellowish tinge. A deep bright red is usually associated with quality in red varieties, although color does not determine the desirability of the fruit.

POPULAR FOR COOKING

Greening and Grimes Golden apples are excellent for culinary purposes. The Greening apple "au naturel" is too tart for most tastes, but the Grimes Golden is generally liked.

Bruises are almost as bad as decayed spots as far as waste is concerned. A bruise in the flesh of the apple will not cook and must be cut away just as a decayed spot must be. Bruises are usually easy to detect.

Over-ripe apples are often affected with tiny brown spots just under the skin that are not noticeable until the fruit is pared. A general softening and browning of the flesh is the result of over-ripe fruit.

Apples should be stored in a cool place, and unless a well-ventilated and cooled fruit cellar is available, the average family will find greater economy in purchasing a half-bushel at a time rather than "putting in" several bushels for winter use.

Molded Apples
Four tart apples, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 1 lemon, 2 cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons little red cinnamon candies.

Make a syrup of sugar, boiling water, grated rind and juice of lemon. Add apples pared and cored and cinnamon candied. Cook over a low fire until fruit is tender. Turn frequently and baste with the syrup while cooking. Soften gelatine in 4 tablespoons cold water for five minutes. Remove apples from syrup and arrange in a serving dish. Add enough boiling water to syrup to make 2 cups and add softened gelatine. Remove from fire and stir until dissolved. Pour over apples. Let stand several hours to chill and become firm and serve with whipped cream or custard sauce.

Overdose Of Opiate Cause Of Man's Death

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—An autopsy has revealed that A. L. Mitchell, tubercular captain, who was found unconscious in his room in the Maple Hotel on Hastings Street Tuesday, and died in the Vancouver General Hospital, came to his death as a result of an overdose of veronal.

It was found, it is stated, that the skull was not fractured as was first

To-morrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23

Good and evil planetary influences contend to-day, according to astrologers. The rule is beneficial for the older generation, which may command attention when it offers advice.

The rule is promising for real estate and in many cities large transfers are indicated within the next few months, astrologers declare.

Farmers to-day appear to be subject to counteracting influences that cheer them. High prices for their produce is forecast. Again the news foretells that combinations of capital will take over agriculture and conduct it on the lines of big business.

Science is to rule, not only in the tilling of the soil, but in the marketing of its products. If the stars are right, the rule is promising for real estate and in many cities large transfers are indicated within the next few months, astrologers declare.

This is not an auspicious day for looking employment and all who need work will do well to await more helpful omens.

It is not a favorable day for any ventures and storms of extraordinary intensity may be expected in certain parts of the world.

There is a sign to-day supposed to make men, deception and double-dealing. Caution is given those who had under their sway.

Even though the stars seem to aid progress and false promises of success.

Romance will take little heed of warnings while the rule prevails.

Despite aspects which bode ill in all its forms this evening, it is announced. Weekdays have a happy augury. Theaters probably will profit to-night when the stars smile on entertainment and seem to promise profit for producers.

Although the cult of youth will continue to dominate in the choice of actresses for stage and screen, older artists are to win appreciation at this time, astrologers announce.

Persons whose birthdate is 12, 18, may have Children born on this day probably will be clever and talented. The subjects of this sign usually love life and appreciate the advantage of winning success.

Needless Pain!

People are often too patient with pain. Suffering when there is no need to suffer. Shopping with a head that throbs. Working though they ache all over. And Aspirin would bring them immediate relief!

The best time to take Aspirin is the very moment you first feel the pain. Why postpone relief until the pain has reached its height? Why hesitate to take anything so harmless?

Read the proven directions for checking colds, easing a sore throat; relieving headaches and the pains of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

You can always count on its quick comfort. But if pain is of frequent recurrence see a doctor as to its cause.

Dear Editor:—
I believe in Santa because I saw him in Spencer's store. That is why I believe in him. He came to my place last Christmas. My mother made a cake and put it on the dining-room table and in the morning it was gone. There was so many toys on the tree. In my stocking there was a rotten potato and some nuts.

Why there is a Santa Claus
Dear Editor:
I know there is a Santa Claus because I have seen him and he is a kind old man to all good girls and boys that love him. I seen him in Hudson Bay store and he gave my sister and I a nice present each. He fills our stockings with all kind of nice things. Hoping he will come again this xmas I left a cup of milk and piece of cake on the table for him, and when I get up in the morning and it was gone.

Why I know there is a Santa Claus.
Dear Mr. Editor:
I'm writing you a letter giving you good proof of why I know there is a Santa Claus. One Christmas Eve father, mother and I were sitting by the fire. We had just finished trimming the Christmas tree when there came a light rap-rap at the door. Father being nearest opened it and to my surprise there stood Santa himself.
"Oh!" he cried, "you are not in bed yet are you?"
"No sir," I said.
"Off to bed with you and be asleep when I come back or you shall have no toys."
I was asleep when he arrived again.
That is why I know there is a Santa Claus.
Yours sincerely,
W. A. Hodges,

JOYCE GOT A WONDERFUL GIFT
November 7, 1929.

I know there is a Santa Claus because I saw him in the Hudson Bay. When my Mummy took me one day I saw Santa in his house. He took me on his knee and he said he liked little girls and boys. He said he would bring me and my brother something nice for Christmas. When I woke up on Christmas morning what do you think I saw. Well I saw a nice doll's house and a nice bed. And I had a real little furniture and nice little beds. Well I guess I will say good by now. Love to Santa Claus

PETER'S MANY REASONS

Dear Sir:
I know there is a Santa Claus for quite a lot of reasons. And these are them. One Christmas I asked for some Lincoln logs and they were not in any store in the town in which I lived. So how could my mother and father buy them when they didn't even go away to any other city? So Santa Claus must of brought them. And I asked for a nice little fire-engine, which was not in the city. So Santa Claus must of brought it. And no other told me that he used to get up very early in the morning and see the tracks of his sled in which he rode in. And even my brother and I used to see the tracks of his sled on very snowy days. A friend of my mother and father told me that he hid behind a sofa or chair and watched Santa put presents on the tree. He was a nice man and I don't think he would be untruthful. And when I write letters to Santa he brings whatever I ask him for. My grand-mother used to tell me about him, and all the things he used to bring her and her family. And what would the people be telling their children about Santa Claus for if there wasn't any Santa? They would be telling a "pretty story" indeed.

SPANISH HAMLET CENTRAL FIGURE

Sir John Martin Harvey Plays
Gripping Role in New Production

When the box office opened to-day for the advance sale of seats for "The Lowland Wolf," which will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, there came a demand from an unusually varied lot of theatre-goers. Sir John Martin Harvey has, of course, a following that will always turn out full strength whether he plays a new role or one of the old favorites. In addition, there were many who are anxious to see him in the starkly realistic role of Hamlet, the shepherd, while others will be chiefly attracted to the performance because the play is the seasonally successful Spanish drama that has in its author's lifetime taken first rank in countries speaking a score of different languages into which it has been translated. Manelich is the Spanish Hamlet, and his strongly-drawn character would be hard to match without going back many years. One is boldness, a fresh breeze from his native hills; another he is the passionate lover; again he becomes the outraged husband, and finally he is an avenger, as he ruthlessly removes the bar to his happiness. With it all Manelich is a child of nature. He is awkward in village life, he belongs to the sweet uplands where his sheep and his dog are his rulers. When men gather together, and women, he cannot find a niche.

For the last three days of his week's engagement Sir John will portray for the last time in Victoria the well-loved Sir John Martin in the ever-popular "The Only Way," the classic adaptation of Charles Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities."

STRATFORDIANS TO PLAY AT ROYAL

Shakespearean Play Will Be Presented Beginning
December 2

The governors of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-upon-Avon, gratified and encouraged by the success of the Festival Company in Canada and the United States last season, are sending the organization again to this side to appear in practically all of the cities visited last year, and to visit a number of other important cities as well. Since the organization was seen on this side it has been appearing at Stratford-upon-Avon, and a number of plays were added to the repertory during last spring and summer. All of these newly revived plays are in the repertory to be acted in this country.

The repertory to be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre beginning December 2 is as follows: Monday evening, "Much Ado About Nothing"; Tuesday, "Romeo and Juliet"; Wednesday, "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; Thursday evening, "The Merry Wives of Windsor"; Thursday evening, "Hamlet"; Friday evening, "Twelfth Night"; Saturday evening, "Macbeth"; Sunday evening, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The personnel of the company is almost the same as last season, though the repertory has been changed. The roster of the company, alphabetically arranged, as is the invariable custom of the Stratfordians, is as follows: Gordon Bailey, Jack H. Hays, Boyfurd, William Calvert, Oliver Cromwell, C. Rivers Gadsby, Ernest Hare, George Hayes, Noel Hurt, R. Eric Lee, Eric Mason, Wilfrid Walter, Kenneth Wickstead, Geoffrey Wilkinson. The women are Miriam Adams, Joyce Bland, Phyllis Drake, Dorothy Francis, Maud Garth, Mary Holder and Olive Walter.

UNUSUAL CAMERA ANGLES BRING NEW POINTS TO LIGHT

The European liking for unusual camera angles in motion pictures is demonstrated in "The Gambler," now at the Dominion Theatre, directed by the noted Hungarian Michael Curtiz, who has been in charge of the filming of screen plays in every photoplay-producing country in Europe with the exception of Russia.

Through these unique shots are not so obvious as to detract from the telling of the story, they illustrate the freshness and added interest which may be brought to a motion picture by the simple expenditure of thought and ingenuity in the matter of photography.

The inventive genius of Mr. Curtiz has made possible the making of scenes such as have never before been attempted in talking pictures, involving the movement, during the making of the scenes, of the ponderous sound-proof booths in which the cameras are enclosed.

TODAY'S POPULAR
VICTOR RECORD

Hudson's Bay Company

AT THE THEATRES

STAGE PRODUCTION OF TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO NOW FILMED

One of the most popular of the many plays written by the late Henry Arthur Jones was "The Physician," now showing at the Playhouse Theatre, in which he demonstrated that a diplomat could never regain complete mental control. The play was produced at the Criterion Theatre, in London, twenty-two years ago, and has been revived several times since. Now it has been filmed with Miles Mander, Ian Hunter and Eiga Brink in the roles played in the original stage performance by T. B. Thaddeus, Sir Charles Wyndham and Mary Ma.

RUSSIAN DRAMA AT COLUMBIA STARS PRETTY MISS NIXON

Few of the screen's feminine favorites have played opposite more famous stars than has pretty Miss Marion Roubenoff. During the last few years, which have brought her a sudden rise in popularity, in that time she has portrayed romantic or impetuous roles with stellar lights as John Gilbert, Tom Mix, Reginald Denry, Jean Harlow, "Buddy" Rogers, Richard Barthelmess, Hoot Gibson and George Lewis. Miss Nixon appears at the Columbia Theatre in "The Red Sword," opposite William Collier Jr., Carmel Myers, Allan Roscoe and Diemetricus Alexis are also prominent in the cast, directed by Robert Vignola.

COMPOSERS OF SONG HITS WROTE TUNES FOR "BROADWAY"

Con Conrad, noted song writer, Archie Guttler and Sidney Mitchell composed the set of songs and dance numbers for Universal's super sound production, "Broadway," which comes to the Capitol Theatre next Monday for a week's run.

With Gus Arnheim's Coconut Grove orchestra playing in the Night Club set, the music is modern, Universal assured an outstanding production.

"Ring a Little Love Song," the theme tune, was recorded with Glen Tryon and Merna Kennedy. Whoppe dance numbers for the ensemble include "Hittin' the Cellin'," "Bounce a Little Ball at Your Baby," "Which Comes First, the Chicken or the Egg," and "Broadway's Got Rhythm."

FILM ACTRESS HAD NARROW ESCAPE AS HORSES RAN AWAY

Edith Roberts was called upon to face when her old western wagon slipped in a runaway during the filming of "The Runaway," Universal picture, starring Ken Maynard, now at the Capitol Theatre.

She nearly did faint when the runaway developed into the real thing. The runaway was staged over a course studded with large rocks, and the outlook was more than exciting for a while. Miss Roberts relates. Then the horse stumbled over a rock and was quieted down before any harm had resulted.

Miss Roberts, who contributes heart interest to this fast-moving picture, has had an extensive and distinguished acting career. As a child she played on the vaudeville stage in New York. She has had important roles in many films, including "The Mystery Club," "Seven Keys to Baldpate," "Big Brother," "Saturday Night" and "There You Are."

Four special concerts at the Empress Hotel this season. December 11, January 23, March 28, April 17.

HAROLD LLOYD COMING IN HIS FIRST TALKIE

Harold Lloyd has evolved one of the cleverest "fadeouts" for his first picture in over a year and a half, "Welcome Danger," which comes to the Dominion Theatre on Monday.

To divulge its nature would be to rob an audience of an unusual picture treat, and to uncover one of the funniest gags in the picture. Suffice it to say, that it was made at the risk of limb by both Mr. Lloyd and his new leading lady, Barbara Kent. In the actual making, it had a "kick," and it
